BRITISH WILL DEFEND NEUTRAL ZONE AGAINST
INVASION BY TURKEY

England Will Not Permit Nationalist Army to Occupy
Thrace—Military Action May be Necessary as Turks Continue Advance.

London, Sept. 20.—The British foreign office formally made it known today that the British empire will not allow Mustafa Kemal Pasha's Turkish nationalist army to occupy Thrace, which is in Europe.

The Turkish nationalists had asked permission to occupy eastern Thrace as one of the peace conditions. It was intimated by the British that while they will not permit the Turks to take over Thrace at the present time negotiations might result in modification of this decision.

It was learned in official quarters that Central Harrington, commander of the British forces in the near east has received official instructions to defend the neutral zone along the Turkish straits.

It is now up to General Harrington to decide whether military action is necessary as a result of the reported approach of the Turkish cavalry to the outskirts of Biga, which is within the allied neutral zone.

According to foreign office officials the whole situation depends upon the answer which Kemal makes to the British representations warning the Turks away from the Turkish straits.

That the situation has improved is indicated by the fact that Premier Lloyd George has gone to the country for a brief vacation. However, he is in communication with 10 Downing St., constantly.

Athens reports that Greece is organizing her army in Thrace as a result of mutinous outbreaks. The Greek government is expected to call up the 1923 class of reservists at once. King Constantine has sent a royal message to the Thracian army to "stand fast for reinforcements are coming."

According to a report from Constantinople today, Turkish nationalist cavalry has reached the outskirts. The report is not officially confirmed. Biga is 45 miles east of Chanak and 12 miles inland from the sea of Marmora.

Britain is sending more troops into the near east to defend the Dardanelles against attack by the Turks. Two battalions from England and two battalions from Ireland are under orders to proceed at once to Asia Minor.

The British troops defending the Dardanelles are concentrated at Chanak at which point the waterway separating Asia Minor from Europe is narrowest.

British warships are anchored in the Dardanelles to support the land forces that have entrenched themselves along the shore.

The trend towards peace by negotiation instead of by force of arms was strengthened today by news from Ankara that Mustafa Kemal Pasha, head of the Turkish nationalists government, had called a "peace council" to get the views of his colleagues upon the allied demands.

France is urging Kemal not to attack the British and the indications are that a peace conference will be arranged within a week, probably at Paris in which a new Turkish treaty will be drawn to replace the treaty of Sevres.

It is reported from Rome that the mutiny of Greek troops in Thrace has reached serious proportions and that many of the soldiers have begun to retreat toward the homeland despite the protests of their officers. It is believed that the allies will intervene in Thrace. It has been under administration of Athens. An Athens dispatch quotes Greek officials as charging that the Turks on the Asia Minor coast fired upon a Greek destroyer killing an officer and three soldiers.

One of the most disquieting features of the situation in the British viewpoint, is the news from Calcutta that the sentiment in favor of the Pan Moslem (Mohammedan) movement is increasing in India. Numerous meetings are being held at which the Turks are praised for their victories over the Christians.

BELIEVE "HAUNTED"
HOUSE WAS SCENE
OF DOUBLE MURDER

Arrest in New Jersey Case
Expected Soon By Authorities.

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 20.—That the double murder of Rev. Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, wealthy rector of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, was committed in the century-old Phillips homestead—"a haunted house"—at midnight, was a theory upon which the Somerset County authorities were working today. The old Phillips homestead was believed to have been deserted. It was isolated and no one ever visited it. But after the murder it was found to have been furnished and recently occupied.

The new theory is that, owing to its loneliness and the fact that it was shunned the clergyman conceived the idea of fixing up the house as a trysting place in which to meet Mrs. Mills after nightfall. The bodies of the victims of the double tragedy were found under an apple tree, not far from the house.

The ancient farm house is under guard of state police today and no one is allowed to enter except upon permission by County Prosecutor Beekman.

The frantic screams which Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCabe heard at midnight, Thursday night, came from the direction of the "haunted house." It is supposed that the clergyman and Mrs. Mills were lured to the Phillips homestead by telephone.

There, in the spooky old farm house in the pitchy darkness of midnight, the couple was confronted, it is supposed, by accusers of their guilt. Continuing this theory the clergyman and Mrs. Mills were first upbraided and then shot down. There were no signs of a struggle at the spot where the bodies were found lying placidly side by side in the grass, in delecting that the murder had taken place elsewhere.

The pistol and bullet riddled woman's handkerchief discovered by the police are believed to have been found between the spot where the bodies rested and the farm house.

The net which has been laid to ensnare the slayer was fast closing in. It was believed that an arrest would have been made before this time but the authorities did not deem the evidence sufficient. Assistant Prosecutor John E. Toolan, in an informal conversation with newspapermen said he expected an arrest soon but would not indicate whether it would be a man or woman.

SEEK EQUALITY FOR IRISH WOMEN

Belfast, Sept. 20.—Two free stivers and two irregulars were killed and 50 irregulars were captured in a battle near Dundrum today.

A bill granting absolute sex equality to Irish women has been passed on first reading by Dail Eireann said a dispatch from Dublin today. It will require further consideration before it is a law.

Eamonn DeValera, commander in chief of the irregulars is reported in Dublin incoherent, trying to open peace negotiations with the free state. This report is discredited here.

MYSTERY IN MURDER OF MINISTER AND WOMAN

Mystery surrounds the assassinations of Rev. Edward W. Hall, pastor of the Church of St. John the Divine, at New Brunswick, N. J., and Mrs. James Mills, choir leader of the church, whose bodies were found in a lonely field near the city. They had been shot to death. Love letters from the woman to the preacher were found near their bodies. Mrs. Hall, however, believes the couple were murdered by robbers and insists her husband was not keeping a tryst with the choir singer. Mrs. Hall is believed to be worth more than $1,000,000, and her beautiful home is in marked contrast to the home of the dead woman.

TASK OF REMOVING DEAD SLOW ONE

Jackson, Cal., Sept. 20.—Slowly, one by one, the Argonaut mine is giving up its Forty-Seven dead who were trapped in its lower depths more than three weeks ago by fire. The bringing to the surface of the decomposed corpses was resumed early today. Nine bodies had been returned to the surface last night seven of which were identified. It is believed that when all of the forty-seven are brought to the surface, identification of the entire company will be eventually established by a process of elimination. The last of the bodies however, are not expected to be brought up until tomorrow night.

Careful handling, long hauling and tedious long climbing are obstacles to this task.

A coroner's jury of twelve of Jackson's business men has been impaneled and will visit the gold mine morgue today, preliminary to the inquest which is scheduled for tomorrow.

Crocker Expedition to Make
Study of Eclipse of Sun

Lick Observatory of University of California Sets Up
Instruments in Australia to Record Phenomenon On September 21.

BY W. CAMPBELL
DIRECTOR LICK OBSERVATORY UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.

Wail, Australia, Sept. 20.—The Crocker expedition from Lick Observatory University of California, has been here three weeks making preparations for observation of the total eclipse of the sun tomorrow (the 21st).

All of the days so far have been beautifully clear and the chances for a clear sky for observation of the eclipse are excellent.

All of our instruments have been fully mounted and only the final adjustments are yet to be made.

The total eclipse of the sun will be observed at Wail by the Crocker expedition due to differences in time at 12:30 eastern standard time to night. The eclipse will not be visible in the United States. The main reason for the expedition's long journey to Wail which is only a telegraph station located on what is known as Ninety Mile Beach, a lonely strip of beach on the northwest coast of Australia, is to make observations which may determine once and for all time the correctness of the Einstein theory of relativity.

CONFESSES TO MURDER

Steuenville, O., Sept. 20.—Edward H. Long, alias Leroy H. McMillen, Akron, late last night made a complete confession to the murder of Charles Conrad, Barasville, taxi driver whose slain body was found along a highway in Belmont county on Sept. 5, the sheriff said.

Long was arrested at Wellsville by Steuenville officers and brought here last night. After a severe grilling in the county jail, the Akron man confessed to the crime, implicating Eddie Harrington, of St. Clairsville, Ohio.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The secretary of war would be authorized to sell to the Alabama Power Company the government owned steam plant and sub station at Gorgas, Ala., and transmission lines to Sheffield, Ala., and to lease in his judgment the nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals under the terms of a resolution introduced in the house today by Rep. Hull, Republican, Iowa.

Hull stated he had proposed this plan for disposing of the great Muscle Shoals government properties because he doubted whether Henry Ford would take the properties under the conditions imposed in the bill reported from the house military affairs committee offering them to the auto manufacturer. He had voted to submit this plan to the house.

His resolution directs the secretary of war to sell for not less than $3,000,000 to the Alabama Power Company, the government owned steam

The eclipse will last for a period of five minutes and nineteen seconds, during which time five special cameras and five spectroscopes will record every phase of the eclipse. These were transported to Australia from San Francisco and special bases provided at Wail by the Australian government. Observations will also be made during the two minutes preceding the eclipse and two minutes immediately after it.

OUTBREAK AGAINST CHRISTIANS OCCURS

Athens, Sept. 20.—An unconfirmed report was received here today that anti-Christian outbreak had taken place at Constantinople. In view of the heavy forces of allied and especially British troops in Constantinople it is believed that Moslems could not do much harm even if the report proves true.

Paris, Sept. 20.—A decisive move towards arranging a near east peace conference was taken today when representatives of four powers began conferring at the foreign office. Those participating were Lord Curzon, Admiral Beatty of England; Signor Storza, of Italy; foreign Minister Ninichitch of Yugoslavia and Premier Poincare of France.

PRESBYTERIANS MAKE APPEAL

Cleveland, Sept. 20.—An appeal to President Harding, adopted unanimously by the Cleveland presbytery representing Presbyterians throughout northeastern Ohio, went forward today asking that the government take action to prevent further massacres of Christians by the Turks in Smyrna.

HOUSE PASSES BONUS
MEASURE OVER VETOWAR SCARE CAUSES
RISE IN PRICES

London, Sept. 20.—The Near East war scare is causing a rise in food prices. British flour today increased four shillings on the sack while American flour went up seven cents. It is reported that speculators are actively buying up provisions of all kinds.

The insurance market quotes a rate of 20 per cent to cover the risk of Premier Lloyd George's resignation. This is an increase of five per cent in 48.

DRASTIC POWER
ADMINISTRATOR

Fuel Director C. J. Neal
Will Use "Big Stick"
if Necessary.

Cleveland, Sept. 20.—Unless Ohio mines furnish coal to Ohio consumers by peaceful agreement, in sufficient quantity to supply the needs of the state then the drastic powers lodged in the fuel administrator will be used to their utmost. Fuel Administrator Clarence J. Neal, who is completing the organization of his staff, announced here today.

Administrator Neal returned to Columbus today to confer with Governor Davis and other officials who have been in close touch with the costs of coal mining and distribution and the prices charged.

Frank H. Baer, traffic commissioner of the chamber of commerce, has accepted appointment as Mr. Neal's first aid in carrying out the "fair price" law enacted by the legislature last week at a special session. Clifford Gildersleeve, industrial commissioner of the chamber, will act as secretary to the administrator. Ernest and Ernest, public accountants, with offices in the principal cities of the state, will act as auditors of the organization.

Mr. Neal said that he hoped to have the cooperation of operators throughout the state in supplying the coal needs of the people at prices that are considered fair. Temporary "fair" prices will be announced within the next few days.

One of the first steps to secure an ample coal supply will be an effort to secure a revocation of the ruling under which 60 per cent of Ohio mined coal is shipped to the northwest.

TWO LOCOMOTIVES
DAMAGED IN CRASH
AT XENIA STATION

East Bound Passenger Hits
Engine at 11:30 a. m.
No One Injured.

Two locomotives were crippled but no one was injured when east bound Pennsylvania passenger train, No. 6, crashed into a freight engine at a crossing in the yards at the depot about 11:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The front end of both engines was crushed, and the freight locomotive was derailed, and thrown against the brick platform around the depot, dislodging the stones in the retaining wall. The passenger engine was incapacitated by a smashed cylinder head, while the left side and front of the freight engine were mashed in the impact.

The freight locomotive, with Engineer William Maxwell, of Columbus, in charge, had been standing on the crossing cross-ways of the east bound track, taking water before the passenger train was due. The freight engine had started to move back out of the way when the passenger train rounded the curve, and crashed into it before it could be halted and before the freight locomotive had time to move out of the way.

The passenger train is a through train which does not stop except in cases of passengers to be discharged. The fact that it had to stop Wednesday to discharge passengers was responsible for the train running slower than usual when it came into the yards. The passenger was in charge of Conductor Ed Arnold of this city and Charles Cavey of Columbus was the engineer. After another engine had been obtained the train proceeded an hour one-half late.

C 2 WILL HOP OFF

House to Pass Measure
Over President's Veto
But Senate Will Not

TO COME UP AGAIN

"Fight Only Started" Says
American Legion
Commander

Washington, Sept. 20.—Undeterred by President Harding's vigorous disapproval expressed in his veto message, the house of representatives this afternoon passed the bonus bill over his veto.

The action of the house, however, was regarded as constituting little more than an empty gesture, as the bill now goes to the senate, where the enemies of the bonus are stronger, and where the president's veto will be sustained—thus effectually killing the bill so far as the present session of congress is concerned.

The vote to override the president's veto was 258 for the bill, 64 against.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The battle scarred soldiers' bonus bill went back to congress today—apparently to die.

The house is expected to prolong its life a little while by passing it over President Harding's vigorous veto. Then it will go to the senate, where a close check up revealed today that it would be given the death thrust.

The bonus, however, cannot be considered as permanently interred even after the senate sustains the White House veto. Friends of the bonus—and they number a majority in both branches of congress—and officers of the American legion made this plain today.

"This fight is only started," Handford MacNider, national commander of the American legion, told the International News Service today. "We are just taking off our coats. There is no thought of dropping it."

"We won against seemingly great odds in France on one occasion and we are not discouraged now."

Other friends of the bonus in congress, asserted without qualification today that new bonus legislation will be introduced in the short session of congress, starting in December. Whether the new legislation will duplicate the Fordney-McCumber bill, now doomed to death, has no been determined, but that there will be a new bonus bill there can be little doubt.

Friends and foes of the present bill were hurrying alike to Washington today to be registered on the veto vote.

The house, it appeared, will override the veto by a good majority, but the senate line up made its defeat certain. Of the 32 or 33 senators known to be opposed to the bill, 31 were in the capital today or enroute here. Of the sixty odd friends of the bonus, slightly less than 50 were known to be in Washington today. Unofficial figures set the senate vote at 47 or 48 against; the president and for the bonus to 29 or 30 for the president and against the bonus. Two thirds are required to override a veto.

President Harding's message did not cause any material change in the line up, it was disclosed today by senatorial comment.

Mr. Harding set forth a number of reasons for returning the bill to the house without his approval. These included:

Failure of Congress to provide a means of financing.

That inevitably the bonus would mean increased taxation.

That the legislation would wipe out everything thus far accomplished to reduce government expenditures wherever possible.

That a peace bestowal on the ex-service men was "a perversion of public funds" and suggested "that future defense is to be inspired by compensation rather than consciousness of duty to flag and country."

That to add one-sixth of the total sum of public debt for distribution among less than 5,000,000 of 110,000,000 people would undermine confidence on which the nation's credit was built and "establish the precedent of distributing public funds whenever the proposal and the number affected make it seem politically appealing to do so."

That the $10,000,000,000 of maturing public debt in the next six years would be difficult to meet without adding the complication of added borrowings on account of bonus.

That the adjusted service certificate plan of payment, with its bank and government loan provisions was little less than a certified inability of the government to pay and invited "a practice of sacrificial barter" by the veterans.

That the bonus would not diminish the later obligation in the way of pensions to the world war veterans.

Asserting that this obligation would "cost more billions than I venture to suggest," the president declared that "a rational financial policy today is necessary to make the nation ready for the expenditure which is certain to be required in the coming years."

CONGRESS TO CONSIDER SHIP SUBSIDY
BILL IN NOVEMBER; TO ADJOURN SOON

Expect Special Session to Be Called About Middle of Month—Tariff Bill Now Enroute to President.

Washington, Sept. 20.—While congressional leaders were preparing to wind up the legislative business of the present session preliminary to an adjournment before the end of the week, a tentative agreement was reached at the White House today between President Harding and Rep. Mondell, the house Republican leader to have congress back in Washington by the middle of November to take up the administration's ship subsidy bill.

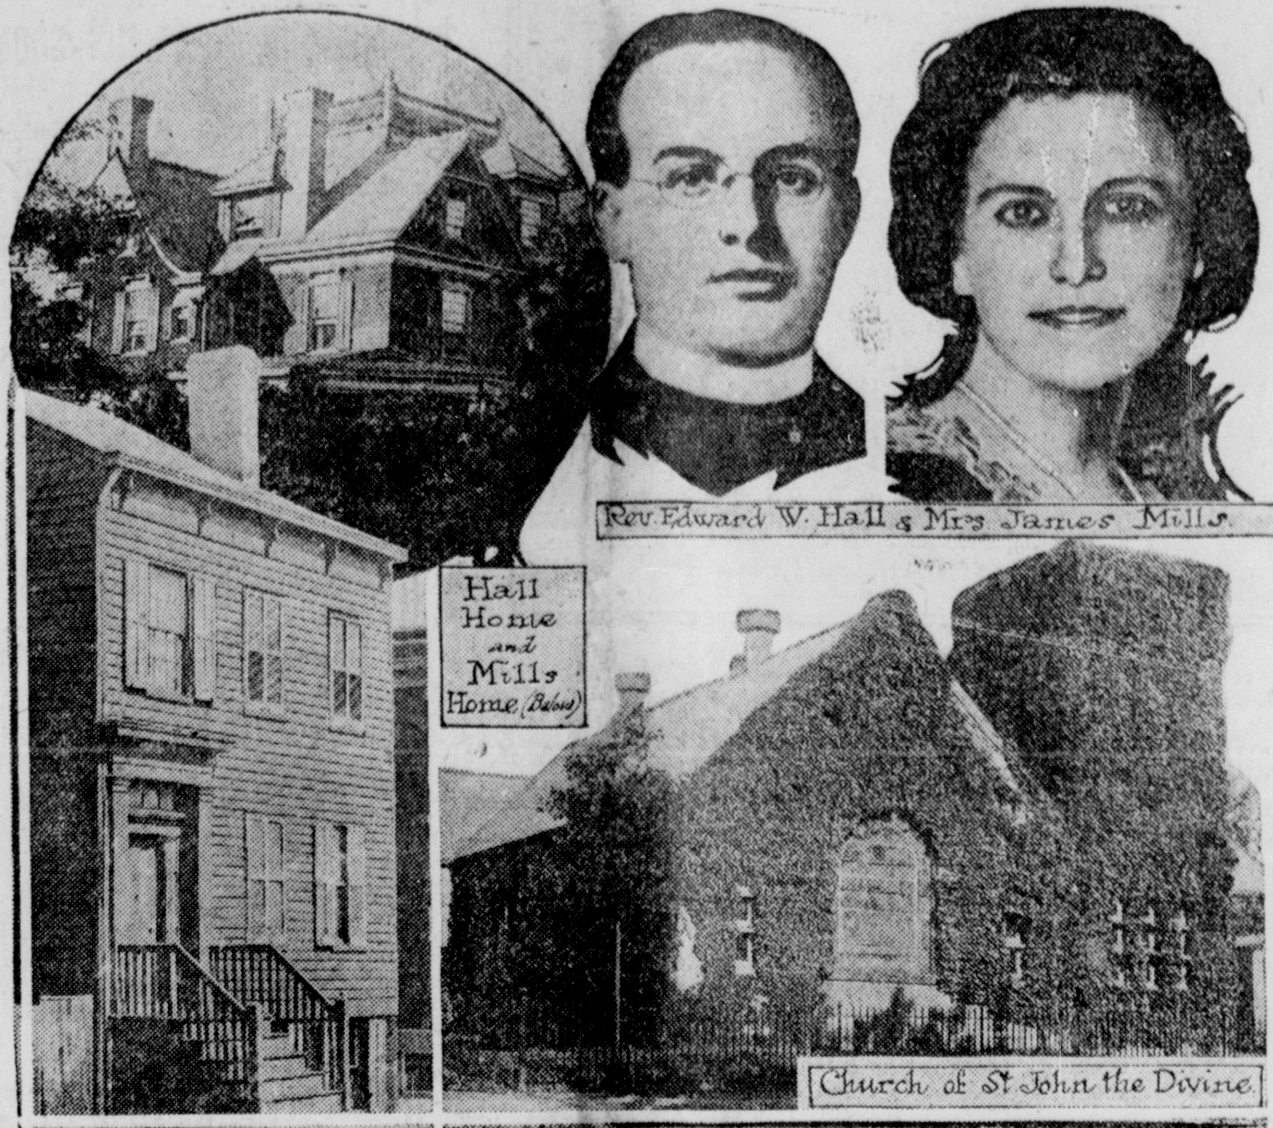

Mondell told the president that a recess might be taken until November 14 or 15, but Senator Lodge the Republican leader of the senate and speaker Gillett of the house, conferred with the president subsequently, leaving the White House with the impression that congress would adjourn sine die and that a special session of the 67th congress would be called.

The whole membership of the house and a third of the senate must stand for re-election in November and the coming month will be spent in campaigning. In a score of states, Senators of both parties who are not candidates for re-election will take the stump in behalf of their colleagues who must go before the people for approval of their expiring terms.

The tariff bill now enroute to the president will be one of the chief national issues. Leaders of both parties have declared they would carry the bill to the polls. Republicans hope to be vindicated by a return to prosperity due to the measure's protective tariff rates. Democrats hope to overthrow the Republican majorities in house and senate by convincing the public the bill will enormously increase the cost of living.

The tariff was finally enacted yesterday by the senate by a vote of 41 to 28. A forlorn attempt was made today to place a duty on long staple cotton. This belated effort was in order because Senator McCumber, Republican of North Dakota, in charge of the bill attempted to correct a Unofficial figures set the senate vote at 47 or 48 against the president and for the bonus to 29 or 30 for the president and against the bonus. Two thirds are required to override a veto.

President Harding's message did not cause any material change in the line up, it was disclosed today by senatorial comment.

Mr. Harding set forth a number of reasons for returning the bill to the house without his approval. These included:

Failure of Congress to provide a means of financing.
That inevitably the bonus would mean increased taxation.

That the legislation would wipe out everything thus far accomplished to reduce government expenditures wherever possible.

That a peace bestowal on the ex-service men was "a perversion of public funds" and suggested "that future defense is to be inspired by compensation rather than consciousness of duty to flag and country."

That to add one-sixth of the total sum of public debt for distribution among less than 5,000,000 of 110,000,000 people would undermine confidence on which the nation's credit was based and "establish the precedent of distributing public funds whenever the proposal and the number affected make it seem politically appealing to do so."

That the $10,000,000,000 of maturing public debt in the next six years would be difficult to meet without adding the complication of added borrowings on account of bonus.

That the adjusted service certificate plan of payment, with its bank and government loan provisions was little less than a certified inability of the government to pay and invited "a practice of sacrificial barter" by the veterans.

That the bonus would no diminish the later obligation in the way of pensions to the world war veterans.

Asserting that "this obligation would cost more billions than I can begin to suggest," the president declared that "a rational financial policy today is necessary to make the nation ready for the expenditure which is certain to be required in the coming years."

BELIEVE "HAUNTED
HOUSE" WAS SCENE
OF DOUBLE MURDER

Arrest in New Jersey Case Expected Soon By Authorities.

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 20.—That the double murder of Rev. Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, wealthy rector of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, was committed in the century-old Phillips homestead—"a haunted house"—at midnight, was a theory upon which the Somerset County authorities were working today. The old Phillips homestead was believed to have been deserted. It was isolated and no one ever visited it. But after the murder it was found to have been furnished and recently occupied.

The new theory is that, owing to its loneliness and the fact that it was shunned the clergyman conceived the idea of fixing up the house as a trysting place in which to meet Mrs. Mills after nightfall. The bodies of the victims of the double tragedy were found under an apple tree, not far from the house.

The ancient farm house is under guard of state police today and no one is allowed to enter except upon permission by County Prosecutor Beckman.

The frantic screams which Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCabe heard at midnight, Thursday night, came from the direction of the "haunted house." It is supposed that the clergyman and Mrs. Mills were lured to the Phillips homestead by telephone.

There, in the spooky old farm house in the pitchy darkness of midnight, the couple was confronted, it is supposed, by accusers of their guilt. Continuing this theory the clergyman and Mrs. Mills were first upbraided and then shot down. There were no signs of a struggle at the spot where the bodies were found lying placidly side by side in the grass, in deating that the murder had taken place else where.

The pistol and bullet riddled woman's handkerchief discovered by the police are believed to have been found between the spot where the bodies rested and the farm house.

The net which has been laid to ensnare the slayer was fast closing in. It was believed that an arrest would have been made before this time but the authorities did not deem the evidence sufficient. Assistant Prosecutor John E. Toolan, in an informal conversation with newspapermen said he expected an arrest soon but would not indicate whether it would be a man or woman.

TO START CLASS IN HOME HYGIENE IN NEAR FUTURE

Red Cross class in "Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, being organized by local Red Cross officials, will start soon, according to the announcement made Wednesday. A large number have signified their intention of joining the class.

"There is room to enroll a number of others in the first class," Miss Evers said in speaking of the course, "and I do not see why every mother should not take this course. It is so reasonable, just three dollars, an investment which will pay large dividends, if the training so received would save the life of one child."

The course is practical, nothing theoretical or technical, according to Miss Evers, and is something that will help the housewife, in every day affairs. No special training is needed, as the course is filled with common sense methods.

The course will be taught by an enrolled Red Cross nurse and a certificate will be issued by the National Red Cross office to each one who satisfactorily completes the fifteen lessons.

FORD TO AWAIT END OF RAIL TROUBLES

Detroit, Sept. 20.—Reopening of the Ford Motor Co.'s plants here and in other cities throughout the country probably will await a clearing up of transportation difficulties, particularly that now encountered in moving fuel from the Ford mines in Kentucky. E. G. Leibold, secretary to Henry Ford, yesterday told the board of commerce fuel committee.

Withdrawal of the interstate commerce commission's "service order No. 23," which deprives certain industries of coal, also was advocated by Mr. Leibold.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad, Mr. Leibold charged, "is hiding behind this order," in declining to enter into an agreement with Mr. Ford for delivery to his railroad, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, fuel being mined in the Ford workings. The Louisville and Nashville taps the Ford coal fields.

As soon as the Louisville and Nashville begins moving coal into the Cincinnati terminal, Harry Shearer, general manager of the Michigan Central Lines declared, plenty of coal will be available to Michigan industries.

The fuel committee met to discuss measures that might prevent further interruption to industries in this state.

TO START CLASS IN HOME HYGIENE IN NEAR FUTURE

Red Cross class in "Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick," being organized by local Red Cross officials, will start soon, according to the announcement made Wednesday. A large number have signified their intention of joining the class.

"There is room to enroll a number of others in the first class," Miss Evers said in speaking of the course, "and I do not see why every mother should not take this course. It is so reasonable, just three dollars, an investment which will pay large dividends, if the training so received would save the life of one child."

The course is practical, nothing theoretical or technical, according to Miss Evers, and is something that will help the housewife, in every day affairs. No special training is needed, as the course is filled with common sense methods.

The course will be taught by an enrolled Red Cross nurse and a certificate will be issued by the National Red Cross office to each one who satisfactorily completes the fifteen lessons.

The arrangement for the return of the men is to be worked out locally between their representatives and the officers of the railroad company at the various points."

The agreement affects approximately 16,000 miles of railroad comprised in the system of the New York Central lines.

Baby's Sore Chafed Skin

The Cause of Untold Misery
Nurse Tells How to Avoid It

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Sykes Comfort Powder has been used on this little boy with great success in keeping his skin free from chafing, scalding, rashes and soreness, which is the cause of so much misery among children. In my eleven years work as a nurse I have never found anything to equal Sykes Comfort Powder for this purpose."—Lottie E. Sloper, Nurse, 4011 Pine St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in healing and preventing chafing, scalding, rashes and skin irritations is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. Physicians and nurses call it "a Healing Wonder."

CAT ROUTS ALLIGATOR IN DEFENSE OF KITTENS

Cincinnati, Sept. 20.—Mother love and methods of warfare which dazed the larger of two queerly matched combatants won against terrible odds Tuesday when a mother cat battled with an alligator which threatened her newborn kittens. Whence the saurian came is still a mystery but he dragged his five foot length up on the back porch of W. F. Madden in Walnut Hills, where "Snookums" the trusted family mouser was basking in the sun with her five tiny kittens.

"Snook" uttered a warning hiss of mingled fear and defiance but the 'Eator fixed his evil eyes on the fluffy kittens and started sliding across the floor toward them. The mother cat launched herself through the air and landed on the huge lizard's back where she proceeded to slice his tough hide with her claws. Her yowls and the din that ensued brought Mrs. Madden to the scene and a bewildered and bleeding alligator was hustled into cellar prison to wait the coming of his owner or some other fate.

PRISON TRANSFORMS CHARACTER OF NEGRO

Columbus, Sept. 20.—Described by state prison authorities as the most remarkable and startling instance of transformation of character in all their experience the case of Roy White, colored, serving a life sentence from Franklin county for murdering his wife, was today presented to Governor Davis with a plea for a commutation which would give him his freedom on Friday, emancipation day.

The plea to the governor was made jointly from public welfare Director Macayale, the state board of pardon and parole. Warden Thomas of the penitentiary, W. F. Amrine and Foster Beery, superintendent and assistant superintendent at the London prison farm, and Common Pleas Judge Duncan, Columbus, who as county prosecutor, obtained White's conviction.

The governor has taken the pleas under advisement. White, the governor was informed was admitted to the prison seven years ago, at the age of 37, a shiftless, irresponsible and illiterate Negro.

Today, White by his own initiative and application, it is claimed has acquired for himself a scholarly education; he has become an authority on literature; a splendid teacher, a lecturer and by virtue of a rarely retentive memory, literally a storehouse of varied useful knowledge. A tireless zeal in the performance of his allotted tasks is attributed to him.

That, according to the prison officials, is the strange change that has taken place in Roy White in seven years behind prison walls.

White's ambition is to take a course at the Tuskegee institute made famous by Booker T. Washington, and then devote his life to educational work among his people.

M. E. CONFERENCE OPENS IN MANSFIELD

Mansfield, O., Sept. 20.—The eleventh annual session of the northeast Ohio conference of Methodist Episcopal Church opened Tuesday afternoon with 550 ministers registered, but did not get into full swing until today when the business sessions were taken up by the presiding bishop, Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh.

An idea of the "big business" of the church may be gained by the sums asked for home missions by the different districts of the conference. Akron ask for $275,000; Barnesville, $166,000; Cambridge, $208,800; Canton, $135,050; Cleveland, $851,700; Mansfield, $850,500; Norwalk $200,000; Steubenville, $215,200; Wooster $109,150; Youngstown $240,700; making a total of $2,587,400 for a ten year period.

Bishop McConnell talked to the ministers on prophets, the trouble makers. He asked what they would do if Amos, the prophet should come to the northeast Ohio conference at Mansfield. Bishop McConnell believes that these prophets or trouble makers should be allowed to speak out in church. "I am not so much concerned about the soap box orator as I am about the meeting held in secret in cellars."

LEPER COLONY TO HEAR MUSIC BY RADIO-PHONE NOW

Manila, Sept. 20.—If you were a leper confined on the rocky island of Culion in the southern Philippines what would be your reaction to the wireless radio-phone? H. D. Cranston, an American business man, of the Philippines, thinks that the reaction of the 5,000 lepers at Culion will be pleasurable, and he has offered to install a receiving and magnavox station at the bandstand at Worcester plaza on Culion, in order that the lepers may enjoy the constabulary band concerts that are given nightly on the Luneta in Manila. Mr. Cranston has investments in the fish, ice, power and light companies at Culion, and lepers conduct the business for him. He offers free power for the radiophone station for one year.

All Filipinos love good music, but without the radiophone the lepers at Culion cannot have good music, whatever might once have been their abilities as musicians. Leprosy destroys the sense of touch, causes loss of fingers, lips, etc. The leper band at Culion plays very indifferently. Governor Wood favors Mr. Cranston's offer as a relief to the tedium of monotony that is the rule at Culion.

CAT ROUTS ALLIGATOR IN DEFENSE OF KITTENS

Cincinnati, Sept. 20.—Mother love and methods of warfare which amazed the larger of two queerly matched combatants won against terrible odds Tuesday when a mother cat battled with an alligator which threatened her newborn kittens. Whence the saurian came is still a mystery but he dragged his five foot length up on the back porch of W. F. Madde in Walnut Hills, where "Snookums," the trusted family mouser was basking in the sun with her five tiny kittens.

"Snook" uttered a warning hiss of mingled fear and defiance but the "gator" fixed his evil eyes on the fluffy kittens and started sliding across the floor toward them. The mother cat launched herself through the air and landed on the huge lizard's back where she proceeded to slice his tough hide with her claws. Her yowls and the din that ensued brought Mrs. Madden to the scene and a bewildered and bleeding alligator was hustled into a cellar prison to wait the coming of his owner or some other fate.

PRISON TRANSFORMS CHARACTER OF NEGRO

Columbus, Sept. 20.—Described by state prison authorities as the most remarkable and startling instance of transformation of character in all their experience the case of Roy White, colored, serving a life sentence from Franklin county for murdering his wife, was today presented to Governor Davis with a plea for a commutation which would give him his freedom on Friday, emancipation day.

The plea to the governor was made jointly from public welfare Director Macayeal, the state board of pardon and parole. Warden Thomas of the penitentiary, W. F. Amrine and Foster Beery, superintendent and assistant superintendent at the London prison farm, and Common Pleas Judge Duncan, Columbus, who as county prosecutor, obtained White's conviction.

The governor has taken the pleas under advisement.

White, the governor was informed was admitted to the prison seven years ago, at the age of 37, a shiftless, irresponsible and illiterate Negro.

Today, White by his own initiative and application, it is claimed has acquired for himself a scholarly education; he has become an authority on literature; a splendid teacher, a lecturer and by virtue of a rare receptive memory, literally a storehouse of varied useful knowledge. A tireless zeal in the performance of his allotted tasks is attributed to him.

That, according to the prison officials, is the strange change that has taken place in Roy White in seven years behind prison walls.

POTTERY WORKERS TO QUIT.

Miller, high counselor; Dr. Frank L. Farmer, Toledo, high physician; R. H. Wiley, Akron, and W. L. Endress, Cleveland, high auditor.

TO RETURN TO WORK.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 20.—Seventeen hundred striking shopmen of the Southern railway here voted to return to work immediately. The action followed announcement by officials of the road that all "imported" strike-breakers would be removed and sent to their homes, leaving only those old employees who remained at their posts when the strike was called.

M. E. CONFERENCE OPENS IN MANSFIELD

Mansfield, O., Sept. 20.—The eleventh annual session of the northeast Ohio conference of Methodist Episcopal Church opened Tuesday afternoon with 550 ministers registered, but did not get into full swing until today when the business sessions were taken up by the presiding bishop, Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh.

An idea of the "big business" of the church may be gained by the sums asked for home missions by the different districts of the conference. Akron asks for $275,000; Barnesville, $166,000; Cambridge, $208,800; Canton, $135,050; Cleveland, $351,700; Mansfield, $850,500; Norwalk $200,000; Steubenville, $215,200; Wooster $109,150; Youngstown $240,700; making a total of $2,587,400 for a ten year period.

Bishop McConnell talked to the ministers on prophecies, the trouble makers. He asked what they would do if Amos, the prophet should come to the northeast Ohio conference at Mansfield, Bishop McConnell believes that these prophecies or trouble makers should be allowed to speak out in church. "I am not so much concerned about the soap box orator as I am about the meeting held in secret in cellars."

FAVOR FERMENTED WINE.

Cleveland, Sept. 20.—Lutheran ministers from Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and other cities, in session here are on record today as favoring the use of fermented wine in the administration of the sacrament, despite the recent pronouncement in favor of unfermented wine by the professors of the Concordia Theological seminary at St. Louis.

PROHIBITS GREEK SHIPS.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish leader, has declined to accept responsibility for permitting Greek ships to enter the harbor at Smyrna to remove refugees, but has referred the question to his government, said a dispatch to the state department from Rear Admiral Bristol, the American high commissioner at Constantinople.

LEPER COLONY TO HEAR MUSIC BY RADIO-PHONE NOW

Manila, Sept. 20.—If you were a leper confined on the rocky island of Culion in the southern Philippines what would be your reaction to the wireless radio-phone? H. D. Cranston, an American business man, of the Philippines, thinks that the reaction of the 5,000 lepers at Culion will be pleasurable, and he has offered to install a receiving and magnavox station at the bandstand at Worcester plaza on Culion, in order that the lepers may enjoy the constabulary band concerts that are given nightly on the Luneta in Manila. Mr. Cranston has investments in the fish, ice, power and light companies at Culion, and lepers conduct the business for him. He offers free power for the radiophone station for one year.

All Filipinos love good music, but without the radiophone the lepers at Culion cannot have good music, whatever might have been their abilities as musicians. Leprosy destroys the sense of touch, causes loss of fingers, lips, etc. The leper band at Culion plays very indifferently. Governor Wood favors Mr. Cranston's offer as a relief to the tedium of monotony that is the rule at Culion.

CANADA LAUNCHES BIG IMMIGRATION PROJECT.

A Canadian immigration project long mooted, and which is expected to involve an expenditure of from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 within the next ten years, is being launched by the Canadian Colonization Association, a private organization, to whose funds $1,500,000 has been subscribed and which is to receive financial assistance from the Dominion Government and the Overseas Settlement Fund of Great Britain.

The enterprise will embrace all parts of the Dominion; but as the largest area of arable land is in the West, the prairies naturally will receive most attention. It is expected 10,000,000 acres will in this way be settled in that section.

This is the largest immigration scheme of its kind Canada has ever seen, and she has had some big ones. It will have the support of the Canadian Pacific and Government railways, which means much, for during the last forty years the Canadian Pacific has spent about $30,000,000 on this kind of work, or more than the Dominion Government itself.

Some idea of what the backing of the Overseas Settlement Fund means may be had from the fact that its appropriations for all purposes contemplate an expenditure of $220,000,000 within ten years, the purpose being to place settlers from the British isles in outlying parts of the empire.

The project is based upon the assumption that Canada's progress depends upon obtaining large immigration of the right kind, the kind that will go on land. It is believed this can be had in the United Kingdom, the United States, the Scandinavian countries and Central Europe. None but carefully selected settlers will be taken.

It is expected a large number of tenant farmers will be drawn from the United States, the activities of the association there being under the direction of Howard Everett, who is Western general manager, and who, as former president of the Luse Land Company, settled more than 1,000,000 acres of land in the West. When the work gets thoroughly under way there will be several thousand agents in the United States.

The salient features of the scheme are as follows: Land in the Western provinces is to be sold on a thirty-two-year payment basis, and in the Eastern provinces on terms that will be governed by local conditions and other considerations.

ENDING A STRIKE.

On most of the 202 Class 1 railroads the rail-shop strike is ending in a truce that follows a drawn battle. Neither side may claim a victory.

The shopmen have lost about $100,000,000 in wages. They are going back to work for the identical wage scale they struck against. They are making a partial settlement instead of a national agreement.

The roads have not been able to whip the weakest of all the rail unions, the shop men. They have lost at least $50,000,000 because of inability to move freight. The cost of strike-fighting has been gigantic.

Farmers have lost possibly $75,000,000 in perishable foods. There are other great losses, indirect and direct, in this useless, foolish strike.

It has ended in a vague sort of compromise. "All men are to return to work in positions of the class they originally held," within thirty days and "at present wages." An exception is made of those "proved guilty of acts of violence."

The strikers and the executives went off by themselves and arranged a compromise that dodges the issue of "seniority" that had become the very heart of the strike. The wage fight was over long ago. "Seniority" baffled the President's conferences and hopes. What of it now?

The strikers have lost, the roads have lost, and the greatest loser of all is the public. Cryptic agreements and explanations that do not explain will not hide these facts or bring back the lost millions poured into the strike sinkhole.

A LETTER.

Here is a letter from James Smith to his wife, Janet, written on June 2, 1875, while Smith was on a business trip to Boston: Dear Janet:—

Not very much to say today. Very hot in Boston. I walk about with my tongue hanging out like a dog's. Went to see M— this morning. After that I did a few errands, one of which took me to Chas. Williams' shop on Court Street, just off Scollay Square. A noisier place I never hope to visit. By the way I met an amusing sort of chap there, quite by accident—blundered into his workshop looking for W—. "Beg pardon," said I, and this chap looked up from a funny little thing he was tinkering with and smiled very pleasantly in an absent-minded sort of way—tall chap, thin, big nose, black hair, funny look about the eyes as though he were all worked up about something. Before going, I asked him out of curiosity what that thing was he was tinkering with. He looked queer for a minute, hesitated, then said it was a machine to carry the voice over a wire. I laughed, and backed out. Interesting chap—a bit cracked, though, evidently—"Voice over a wire"—imagine! Yes, really quite mad, you know. Well, I must stop. Write son.

Yours ever,

JAMES.

—that very afternoon the full twang of a clock spring was reproduced over an electrified wire for the first time, in a tiny shop on Court Street; and Alexander Graham Bell—"a tall chap, thin, big nose, black hair"—had invented the telephone.

BUS REGULATION.

Says the Cleveland Commercial in a recent editorial:

"The question of motor bus regulation by the state will soon become a more important issue in Ohio. They must be regulated so as not unfairly to compete with the city street car lines or interurbans. Unless the regulation is carefully made, there is always danger that buses will too greatly injure business of the trolley lines. Operating without expensive rights of way such as the electric lines must buy, it is only fair that buses be compelled to pay a fair and reasonable tax to the state and to the communities in which they operate. This tax should be sufficient to be a substantial contribution to the highway maintenance fund. Moreover, it should in some measure parallel the state and local taxation to which the electric roads are subjected."

WE WON'T GET VERY FAR UNLESS WE UNTIE THE LEAD TEAM

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

We are pleased to note a decided improvement in the appearance of the Bellbrook Moon, which has recently treated itself to a new dress.

A number of the Xenia High School boys went to Dayton this morning to see the football game which is to be played this afternoon by the Dayton Cash Register and the Dayton Central Juniors.

There is a great public need of a crossing over Green Street to the Court House, opposite the entrance to the building. The mud of the past few days has made the street almost impassible.

The small number of people assembled at the Pan Handle station last night to see President Roosevelt were disappointed for the train did not stop.

HEALTHY HAIR.

Several years ago I met a woman whose hair had shortened from far below the waistline to the shoulders. During the ten years it had taken to do this, the hair had become extremely fine and brittle, while the quantity had lessened until the scalp would have shown through the hair had it not been for the fact that her hair was naturally curly and fluffed out over her head. As she was a woman of fine health, lived outdoors a great deal of her time and had never had dandruff nor any other scalp troubles she felt that her lost hair was natural.

new growth are succeeding each other all the time, each stronger and healthier than the old hair; yet there had been no other restorative measures used than clipping the ends every six weeks and a daily vigorous massage of the scalp.

This woman's case is a typical one of deterioration from neglecting to clip the ends of the hair, which are inclined to split. The traditional clipping at the time of the increasing moon had its virtue because a regular time was set to attend to this detail which is not so small as it seems to be to some people.

At the end of the summer, after the hair has been sunburned, there will be a great deal of splitting of the ends. They should be thoroughly clipped to insure a continuance of the health of the hair during the coming months. If the hair has become dried out also, use for a time a tonic in which there is some oil, or do as this woman did massage the scalp every day to increase the circulation in it, as this will build up any scalp to normally good health.

WILL BUILD ROAD FROM BLANCHESTER TO CINCINNATI

Wilmington, Sept. 20.—Wilmington County folks in general are sharing with Blanchester and neighboring county folk the pleasure of the announcement that has come from the State Highway Department of the decision to complete the remaining gaps of the highway connecting Blanchester and Cincinnati.

Detours have been made for several months while a short stretch of highway is being built between Mulberry and Milford, and now the contract has been let for gaps just the other side of Goshen. This stretch includes the indescribable section of road called the "saw-mill hill," which was commonly considered the worst piece of road in Ohio, and went as such without dispute among travelers.

The work will be rushed to complete this section of road by January 1, and when it is done the route to Cincinnati through Blanchester will be perfected, leaving no gap in the continuous highway.

Tangled Values
The more I consider it, the more I am convinced that to select properly and stand by the values in life, is to plant one's feet upon solid ground.

I have a friend of brilliant mind, whose values have become so tangled that he hounds about hither and thither as a cat might who has become tangled at play with a ball of yarn.

You see him enthuse and grow big in possibility, only to grasp at the critical moment at some inconsequential fact which trips him and sends him reeling into uselessness.

Our values are our standards of action. They must be clear and full of meaning to us. And we must lead our work and ideals to them through the most serious play of our natures. Through thought must they be conceived and in great patience of mind must they live and become real to us.

We have different sets of values. As in the painting of the great master, each value must blend naturally and beautifully into its mate. So that the resulting character as a whole presents the best of which we are capable.

CANADA LAUNCHES BIG IMMIGRATION PROJECT.

A Canadian immigration project long mooted, and which is expected to involve an expenditure of from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 within the next ten years, is being launched by the Canadian Colonization Association, a private organization, to whose funds $1,500,000 has been subscribed and which is to receive financial assistance from the Dominion Government and the Overseas Settlement Fund of Great Britain.

The enterprise will embrace all parts of the Dominion; but as the largest area of arable land is in the West, the prairies naturally will receive most attention. It is expected 10,000,000 acres will in this way be settled in that section.

This is the largest immigration scheme of its kind Canada has ever seen, and she has had some big ones. It will have the support of the Canadian Pacific and Government railways, which means much, for during the last forty years the Canadian Pacific has spent about $30,000,000 on this kind of work, or more than the Dominion Government itself.

Some idea of what the backing of the Overseas Settlement Fund means may be had from the fact that its appropriations for all purposes contemplate an expenditure of $225,000,000 within ten years, the purpose being to place settlers from the British Isles in outlying parts of the empire.

The project is based upon the assumption that Canada's progress depends upon obtaining large immigration of the right kind, the kind that will go on land. It is believed this can be had in the United Kingdom, the United States, the Scandinavian countries and Central Europe. None but carefully selected settlers will be taken.

It is expected a large number of tenant farmers will be drawn from the United States, the activities of the association there being under the direction of Howard Everett, who is Western general manager, and who, as former president of the Luse Land Company, settled more than 1,000,000 acres of land in the West. When the work gets thoroughly under way there will be several thousand agents in the United States.

The salient features of the scheme are as follows: Land in the Western provinces is to be sold on a thirty-two-year payment basis, and in the Eastern provinces on terms that will be governed by local conditions and other considerations.

ENDING A STRIKE.

On most of the 202 Class 1 railroads the rail-shop strike is ending in a truce that follows a drawn battle. Neither side may claim a victory.

The shopmen have lost about $100,000,000 in wages. They are going back to work for the identical wage scale they struck against. They are making a partial settlement instead of a national agreement.

The roads have not been able to whip the weakest of all the rail unions, the shop men. They have lost at least $50,000,000 because of inability to move freight. The cost of strike-fighting has been gigantic.

Farmers have lost possibly $75,000,000 in perishable foods. There are other great losses, indirect and direct, in this useless, foolish strike.

It has ended in a vague sort of compromise. "All men are to return to work in positions of the class they originally held," within thirty days and "at present wages." An exception is made of those "proved guilty of acts of violence."

The strikers and the executives went off by themselves and arranged a compromise that dodges the issue of "seniority" that had become the very heart of the strike. The wage fight was over long ago. "Seniority" baffled the President's conferences and hopes. What of it now?

The strikers have lost, the roads have lost, and the greatest loser of all is the public. Cryptic agreements and explanations that do not explain will not hide these facts or bring back the lost millions poured into the strike sinkhole.

A LETTER.

Here is a letter from James Smith to his wife, Janet, written on June 2, 1875, while Smith was on a business trip to Boston:

Dear Janet:—
Not very much to say today. Very hot in Boston. I walk about with my tongue hanging out like a dog's. Went to see M— this morning. After that I did a few errands, one of which took me to Chas. Williams' shop on Court Street, just off Scollay Square. A noisier place I never hope to visit. By the way I met an amusing sort of chap there, quite by accident—blundered into his workshop looking for W—. "Beg pardon," said I, and this chap looked up from a funny little thing he was tinkering with and smiled very pleasantly in an absent-minded sort of way—tall chap, thin, big nose, black hair, funny look about the eyes as though he were all worked up about something. Before going, I asked him out of curiosity what that thing was he was tinkering with. He looked queer for a minute, hesitated, then said it was a machine to carry the voice over a wire. I laughed, and backed out. Interesting chap—a bit cracked, though, evidently—"Voice over a wire"—imagine! Yes, really quite mad, you know. Well, I must stop. Write soon.

Yours ever,

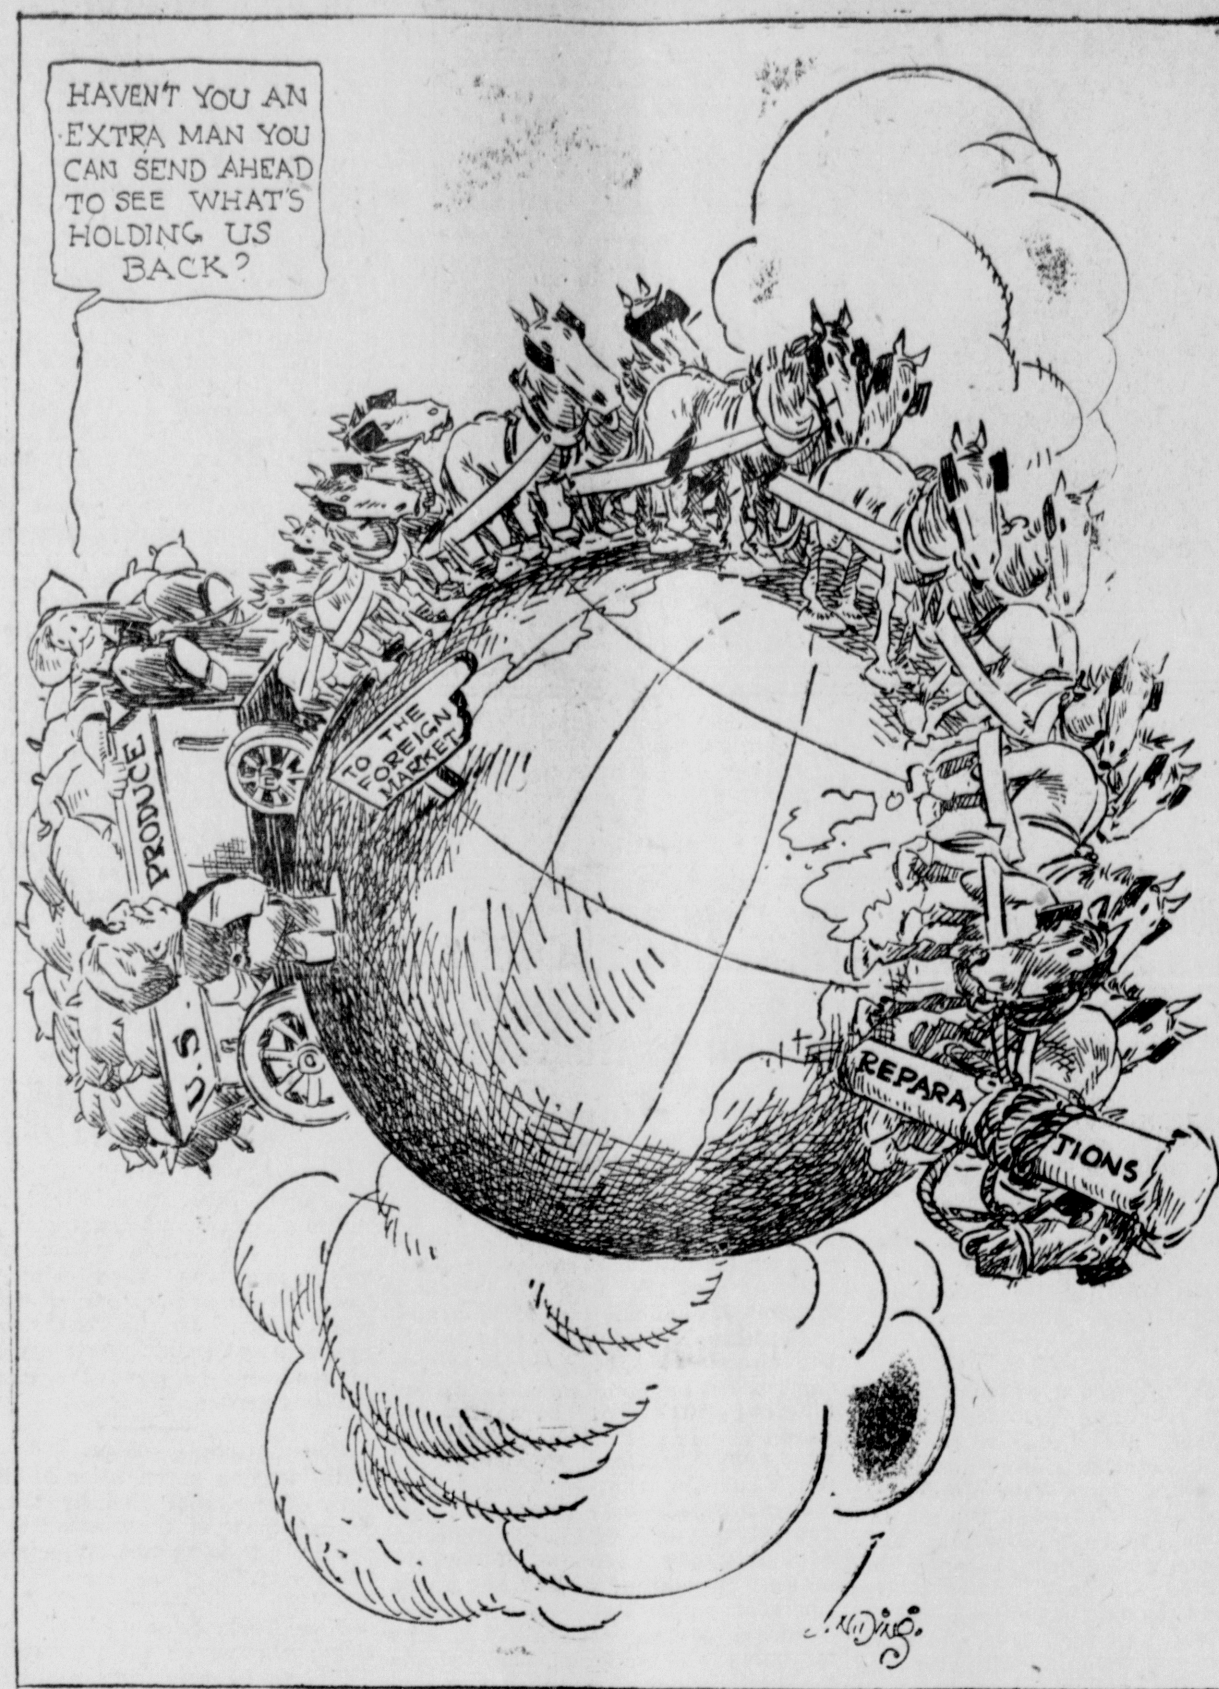

JAMES.

—that very afternoon the full twang of a clock spring was reproduced over an electrified wire for the first time, in a tiny shop on Court Street; and Alexander Graham Bell—"a tall chap, thin, big nose, black hair"—had invented the telephone.

BUS REGULATION.

Says the Cleveland Commercial in a recent editorial: "The question of motor bus regulation by the state will soon become a more important issue in Ohio. They must be regulated so as not unfairly to compete with the city street car lines or interurbans. Unless the regulation is carefully made, there is always danger that buses will too greatly injure business of the trolley lines. Operating without expensive rights of way such as the electric lines must buy, it is only fair that buses be compelled to pay a fair and reasonable tax to the state and to the communities in which they operate. This tax should be sufficient to be a substantial contribution to the highway maintenance fund. Moreover, it should in some measure parallel the state and local taxation to which the electric roads are subjected."

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

We are pleased to note a decided improvement in the appearance of the Bellbrook Moon, which has recently treated itself to a new dress.

A number of the Xenia High School boys went to Dayton this morning to see the football game which is to be played this afternoon by the Dayton Cash Register and the Dayton Central Juniors.

There is a great public need of a crossing over Green Street to the Court House, opposite the entrance to the building. The mud of the past few days has made the street almost impassible.

The small number of people assembled at the Pan Handle station last night to see President Roosevelt were disappointed for the train did not stop.

HEALTHY HAIR.

Several years ago I met a woman whose hair had shortened from far below the waistline to the shoulders. During the ten years it had taken to go this, the hair had become extremely fine and brittle, while the quantity had lessened until the scalp would have shown through the hair had it not been for the fact that her hair was naturally curly and fluffed out over her head. As she was a woman of fine health, lived outdoors a great deal of her time and had never had dandruff nor any other scalp troubles she felt that her lost hair was nat-

new growth are succeeding each other all the time, each stronger and healthier than the old hair; yet there had been no other restorative measures used than clipping the ends every six weeks and a daily vigorous massage of the scalp.

This woman's case is a typical one of deterioration from neglecting to clip the ends of the hair, which are inclined to split. The traditional clipping at the time of the increasing moon had its virtue because a regular time was set to attend to this detail which is not so small as it seems to be to some people.

At the end of the summer, after the hair had been sunburned, there will be a great deal of splitting of the ends. They should be thoroughly clipped to insure a continuance of the health of the hair during the coming months. If the hair has become dried out also, use for a time a tonic in which there is some oil, or do as this woman did massage the scalp every day to increase the circulation in it, as this will build up any scalp to normally good health.

WILL BUILD ROAD FROM BLANCHESTER TO CINCINNATI

Wilmington, Sept. 20.—Wilmington County folks in general are sharing with Blanchester and neighboring county folk the pleasure of the announcement that has come from the State Highway Department of the decision to complete the remaining gaps of the highway connecting Blanchester and Cincinnati.

Detours have been made for several months while a short stretch of highway is being built between Mulberry and Milford, and now the contract has been let for gaps just the other side of Goshen. This stretch includes the indescribable section of road called the "saw-mill hill," which was commonly considered the worst piece of road in Ohio, and went as such without dispute among travelers.

The work will be rushed to complete this section of road by January 1, and when it is done the route to Cincinnati through Blanchester will be perfected, leaving no gap in the continuous highway.

GIVE ENDORSEMENT OF ADVERTISING IN LOCAL NEWSPAPERS

The marked success of last season's advertising in daily papers all over the country has resulted in The Globe-Wernicke Co., makers of sectional bookcases and office devices, deciding upon a repetition of that campaign through their dealers and branches.

The Globe-Wernicke Co. found that advertising in the local daily paper, in cities where the goods are on sale and where interested parties could see and buy the goods, produced definite and most satisfactory results. And the public was better served and benefited by having its attention called to modern and progressive devices and the local dealer handling them.

The decision of this company, the largest of its kind in the world, is but one more strong endorsement of local newspaper advertising.

WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE TRICKED HER HUSBAND IN COURT

Sordid Story Brought Out in Indiana Court Room at Hearing

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 20.—Cat calls, and hisses greeted the entrance of Harry Poulin in court today as the hearing of the Tiernan-Poulin paternity case was resumed.

Pandemonium broke out as the man accused of being the father of the November "love" baby of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of John P. Tiernan, of Notre Dame University, took his seat. Men stamped their feet and jeered. Women gave vent to pent up emotions by vituperative outbursts.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 20.—This sordid story of trickery and deceit wrung from the trembling lips of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan in her court action to prove that Harry Poulin is the father of her baby born last November, was to be taken up by her husband, Professor John Tiernan of Notre Dame university today.

With Mrs. Tiernan's story of her illicit love romance with Poulin completed even to the most intimate marital secrets, Prosecutor Floyd O. Jellison, was next to establish through the testimony of the husband, whether the Tiernans lived together as husband and wife during February and March of 1921, during which Mrs. Tiernan testified she kept her clandestine tryst with Poulin. Mrs. Tiernan has already explained how she tricked her husband into believing that the baby was his own.

All went well until, as Mrs. Tiernan said, she was snubbed by her lover. Then her love for Poulin turned expected. Perhaps Mrs. Poulin, who mined to make the man pay as she had paid in the heartaches over sin. It is not believed that the prosecution would complete its evidence today. Professor Tiernan would be on the stand much of the day, it was expected. Perhaps Mrs. Poulin, who is standing by her husband in the denial of the charges will be a witness at today's session. She has been subpoenaed by Prosecutor Jellison.

Last night in answer to questions, Mrs. Poulin declared that the world will soon be allowed to hear "their side of the case." She also reiterated her determination to stand by her husband "to the finish."

CHILDREN SHOULD BE EDUCATED TO VARIOUS TRADES

Secretary of Labor Declares Too Much Emphasis on Books.

Columbus, Sept. 20.—More children should be educated to the various trades and less to the "white collar" occupations, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today told delegates to the American Insurance Union in session here.

"The farmer and the industrial worker make up ninety per cent of our population while only ten per cent are in professional life," said Secretary Davis. "Yet most of our whole educational system is equipped to turn out boys and girls fitted solely for the so-called 'white collar' occupations. Educating 100 per cent of our children for less than 10 per cent of our jobs is folly and in time will lead to social, political and economic chaos."

"Today 'white collar' occupations are crowded to overflowing. Our youth is flocking in unseemly throngs to the cluttered office buildings, while we are lacking in the skilled craftsmen and artisans necessary to maintain production on farm, in mill and factory, where wages are often far higher than in the crowded 'white collar' occupations."

Secretary Davis said the ultimate outcome of this system, continued without reform or amendment would be the creation of a nation where every man and woman would have book learning and none of the learning of the hands, which he declared is so "vital to national prosperity and progress."

"We must restore the dignity of labor by teaching the trades in our schools," the labor secretary added.

"MISS AMERICA" TO ENTER MOVIES

A reader of this Column has sent me, for publication, the following interesting account of turning food left-overs into a guest meal, in an emergency.

"At about a quarter after four o'clock, one afternoon, I received a telephone call from a friend of my husband's, saying that he was in town for the day and would like to see us. On impulse without thinking what provisions I had on hand—I invited him to dinner at 6:30. When I hung up the receiver I realized that I had in the ice box only some meat scraps from a leg of lamb, a little brown gravy, a dish of string beans, a bunch of beets, a pint of blueberries—and that was all."

I flew to my daughter, Peggy and told her that we were to have a guest. Knowing the state of the larder, she was aghast. Then mother and daughter started for the kitchen. "The first thing to do was to see just how much left over meat we had. There proved to be quite a little after it was cut off the bone—and it was tender, delicious spring lamb. It would do, warmed up in a well-seasoned brown sauce founded on the gravy. There were plenty of new potatoes in the pantry and enough time left to cook them in. Then we decided to make a vegetable salad of the beets and beans, topped with some home-made mayonnaise and made attractive by lettuce.

"Mother breathed more freely now but there was still another anxiety, the dessert. The pint of berries was certainly a small allowance for five people (we have four in our family). Then we discovered a few pieces of plain home-made cake in the cake box, and had an idea; we would arrange the cake in the bottom of our cut-glass desert bowl, sprinkle the berries over the cake, pour on top boiled custard (which, fortunately, there was plenty of time to make) and top all with eggwhites beaten stiff with a little sugar. This was a desert dainty enough to please the most fastidious diner."

"Mother set the table and congratulated herself that Peggy had bought a few pink roses the day before from a flower vender and they made a lovely centerpiece for the dinner table. She was also glad to find that she had on hand a few pieces of preserved ginger which, in a pretty dish, not only garnished the table but would serve as an appetizer between the courses."

"At a quarter after six mother and daughter, in fresh summer dresses awaited serenely the arrival of their guest, comfortably conscious that the dinner with its savory meat, new potatoes, delicious salad garnished with a handful of pistachio nuts, tempting dessert, with crisp little cookies (made hastily by Peggy) and fragrant coffee, was ample in quantity and needed no apologies."

OHIO REPUBLICANS WILL OPEN STATE CAMPAIGN OCT. 3

Speaking Drive Through-out State is Now Being Planned.

Columbus, Sept. 20.—Announcement that Ohio Republicans will open their state wide campaign here Oct. 3 or 5, was made by State Campaign Manager William Miller, following a conference with Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, Cleveland, candidate for governor; State Senator William Chatfield, Jr., Cincinnati, candidate for lieutenant governor; State Rep. C. C. Crabbe, London, candidate for attorney general and other candidates on the G. O. P. ticket.

Chairman Miller said it is uncertain whether former U. S. Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Indianapolis, would be able to address the campaign "opener" here.

The conferees agreed upon plans for a speaking campaign throughout Ohio, including congressional district meetings during the first two weeks next month, at which speeches will be made by speakers of national repute. County meetings will be in order during the third week. The last three weeks of the campaign it was stated will be marked by general meetings in all counties.

AMERICA MAY USE SAME WAR MACHINERY

Washington, Sept. 20.—America's man power in the next war if when and as that war occurs, will be mobilized through the medium of the self-same draft that Major General Crowder operated during the world war if the recommendations of the war department's conference on personnel mobilization problems, forwarded to the general staff today, are accepted.

The conference, composed of 26 men who were actively concerned in the operations of the draft spent two days in discussing the questions of mobilization from every point of view. And they were unable to find any better method than the draft.

The chief reason for the success of the draft the conference reported was the fact that it was administered by civilians who commanded the confidence and loyalty of the draftees to a greater extent than army officers would have.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

The need of instilling in the youth a sense of civic and political responsibility, the realization that the junior citizen is the best guarantee of good citizenship have been so forcefully brought to the attention of club women that a new department has been created and added to the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. It is the department of junior memberships and it is headed by Mrs. Kenneth R. Taylor, Sheridan road, South Euclid. Its great purpose is that the women of the Ohio Federation may through help pave the way for a citizenship better than the country has every had before.

Mrs. C. S. Selover, president of the Ohio Federation voices the real hopes of this new department when she observed: "The youth of today are asking for their leadership. In working with the young, we must begin with the 10 year olds if we hope for much." Mrs. Selover was one of the speakers on "Building Junior Memberships" at the Chautauqua biennial.

Out in the little Arkansas town of Fayetteville lives one of the foremost club women of the United States, if not the entire world. She is Mrs. Leslie Stringfellow Read, whose influence is felt in club circles more impressively than any other woman in America. She personally is known to many Ohio club women. She is the editor of the "General Federation News," issued by the press, and publicity department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, made up of "a group of organized women in every community who can be depended upon to promote all movements looking towards the betterment of life." Through Mrs. Read, as has been said, "the General Federation, once averse to seeing itself in print, has come to value advertising as a medium of reaching other women with its many messages concerning work for the betterment of humanity." Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, of Minneapolis, was formerly head of the General Federation's department of press and publicity. Mrs. Read's brilliant work in covering the biennial convention for the General Federation News has drawn attention to her from every section of the country, and already club women are predicting she may follow in the footsteps of Mrs. Winter.

The art division of the department of fine arts of the Ohio Federation, conducted a meeting at the home of the chairman, Mrs. J. E. Clark, No. 32 Thirteenth avenue, Columbus, a short time ago, when plans for work were formulated for the coming year. The main object will be to secure the appointment of a state supervisor of art. Mrs. Clark believes that the time is at hand when the demand for beauty and a training in the lessons of art is becoming more and more insistent. She says: "There has never

Members of the Child's Conservation league at Cambridge entertained with a reception recently at the home of the president, Mrs. George L. Dugan. All the babies born to members during the past year were the guests of honor. The event was not a "howling success" but it was unqualifiedly successful and the guests of honor were model babies during the party, "from beginning to end." The Cambridge league is making arrangements for the Kauman quartet which will give a program at the Colonial Theater Oct. 16. Through this entertainment officials of the league are hopeful of filling their treasury to be used to carry on the good work they are doing and have planned to do in Cambridge.

GIVE ENDORSEMENT OF ADVERTISING IN LOCAL NEWSPAPERS

The marked success of last season's advertising in daily papers all over the country has resulted in The Globe-Wernicke Co., makers of sectional bookcases and office devices, deciding upon a repetition of that campaign through their dealers and branches.

The Globe-Wernicke Co. found that advertising in the local daily paper, in cities where the goods are on sale and where interested parties could see and buy the goods, produced definite and most satisfactory results. And the public was better served and benefited by having its attention called to modern and progressive devices and the local dealer handling them.

The decision of this company, the largest of its kind in the world, is but one more strong endorsement of local newspaper advertising.

WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE TRICKED HER HUSBAND IN COURT

Sordid Story Brought Out In Indiana Court Room at Hearing

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 20.—Cat calls and hisses greeted the entrance of Harry Poulin in court today as the hearing of the Tiernan-Poulin paternity case was resumed.

Pandemonium broke out as the man accused of being the father of the November, "love" baby of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of John P. Tiernan, of Notre Dame University, took his seat. Men stamped their feet and jeered. Women gave vent to pent up emotions by vituperative outbursts.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 20.—The sordid story of trickery and deceit wrung from the trembling lips of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan in her court action to prove that Harry Poulin is the father of her baby born last October, was to be taken up by her husband, Professor John Tiernan, of Notre Dame university today.

With Mrs. Tiernan's story of her illicit love romance with Poulin completed even to the most intimate marital secrets, Prosecutor Floyd O. Ellison, was next to establish through the testimony of the husband, whether the Tiernans lived together as husband and wife during February and March of 1921, during which Mrs. Tiernan testified she kept her clandestine tryst with Poulin. Mrs. Tiernan has already explained how she tricked her husband into believing that the baby was his own.

All went well until, as Mrs. Tiernan said, she was snubbed by her lover. Then her love for Poulin turned expected. Perhaps Mrs. Poulin, who mined to make the man pay as she had paid in the heartaches over sin. It is not believed that the prosecution would complete its evidence today. Professor Tiernan would be on the stand much of the day, it was expected. Perhaps Mrs. Poulin, who is standing by her husband in the denial of the charges will be a witness at today's session. She has been subpoenaed by Prosecutor Ellison.

Last night in answer to questions, Mrs. Poulin declared that the world will soon be allowed to hear "their side of the case." She also reiterated her determination to stand by her husband "to the finish."

CHILDREN SHOULD BE EDUCATED TO VARIOUS TRADES

Secretary of Labor Declares Too Much Emphasis on Books.

Columbus, Sept. 20.—More children should be educated to the various trades and less to the "white collar" occupations, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today told delegates to the American Insurance Union in session here.

"The farmer and the industrial worker make up ninety per cent of our population while only ten per cent are in professional life," said Secretary Davis. "Yet most of our whole educational system is equipped to turn out boys and girls fitted solely for the so-called 'white collar' occupations. Educating 100 per cent of our children for less than 10 per cent of our jobs is folly and in time will lead to social, political and economic chaos."

"Today 'white collar' occupations are crowded to overflowing. Our youth is flocking in unseemly throngs to the cluttered office buildings, while we are lacking in the skilled craftsmen and artisans necessary to maintain production on farm, in mill and factory, where wages are often far higher than in the crowded 'white collar' occupations."

Secretary Davis said the ultimate outcome of this system, continued without reform or amendment would be the creation of a nation where every man and woman would have book learning and none of the learning of the hands, which he declared is so "vital to national prosperity and progress."

"We must restore the dignity of labor by teaching the trades in our schools," the labor secretary added.

A reader of this Column has sent me, for publication, the following interesting account of turning food left-overs into a guest meal, in an emergency.

"At about a quarter after four o'clock, one afternoon, I received a telephone call from a friend of my husband's, saying that he was in town for the day and would like to see us. On impulse without thinking what provisions I had on hand—I invited him to dinner at 6:30. When I hung up the receiver I realized that I had in the ice box only some meat scraps from a leg of lamb, a little brown gravy, a dish of string beans, a bunch of beets, a pint of blueberries—and that was all!

I flew to my daughter, Peggy and told her that we were to have a guest. Knowing the state of the larder, she was aghast. Then mother and daughter started for the kitchen. "The first thing to do was to see just how much left over meat we had. There proved to be quite a little after it was cut off the bone—and it was tender, delicious spring lamb. It would do, warmed up in a well-seasoned brown sauce founded on the gravy. There were plenty of new potatoes in the pantry and enough time left to cook them in. Then we decided to make a vegetable salad of the beets and beans, topped with some home-made mayonnaise and made attractive by lettuce.

"Mother breathed more freely now but there was still another anxiety; the dessert. The pint of berries was certainly a small allowance for five people (we have four in our family). Then we discovered a few pieces of plain home-made cake in the cake box, and had an idea; we would arrange the cake in the bottom of our cut-glass dessert bowl, prinkle the berries over the cake, pour on top boiled custard (which, fortunately, there was plenty of time to make) and top all with eggwhites beaten stiff with a little sugar. This was a dessert dainty enough to please the most fastidious diner.

"Mother set the table and congratulated herself that Peggy had bought a few pink roses the day before from a flower vender and they made a lovely centerpiece for the dinner table. She was also glad to find that she had on hand a few pieces of preserved ginger which, in a pretty dish, not only garnished the table but would serve as an appetizer between the courses.

"At a quarter after six mother and daughter, in fresh summer dresses awaited serenely the arrival of their guest, comfortably conscious that the dinner with its savory meat, new potatoes, delicious salad garnished with a handful of pistachio nuts, tempting dessert, with crisp little cookies (made hastily by Peggy) and fragrant coffee, was ample in quantity and needed no apologies."

OHIO REPUBLICANS WILL OPEN STATE CAMPAIGN OCT. 3

Speaking Drive Throughout State is Now Being Planned.

Columbus, Sept. 20.—Announcement that Ohio Republicans will open their state wide campaign here Oct. 3 or 5, was made by State Campaign Manager William Miller, following a conference with Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, Cleveland, candidate for governor; State Senator William Chaffin, Jr., Cincinnati, candidate for lieutenant governor; State Rep. C. G. Crabbe, London, candidate for attorney general and other candidates on the G. O. P. ticket.

Chairman Miller said it is uncertain whether former U. S. Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Indianapolis, would be able to address the campaign "opener" here.

The conferees agreed upon plans for a speaking campaign throughout Ohio, including congressional district meetings during the first two weeks next month, at which speeches will be made by speakers of national repute. County meetings will be in order during the third week. The last three weeks of the campaign it was stated will be marked by general meetings in all counties.

AMERICA MAY USE SAME WAR MACHINERY

Washington, Sept. 20.—America's main power in the next war if when and as that war occurs, will be mobilized through the medium of the self-same draft that Major General Crowder operated during the world war if the recommendations of the war department's conference on personnel mobilizations problems, forwarded to the general staff today, are accepted.

The conference, composed of 26 men who were actively concerned in the operations of the draft spent two days in discussing the questions of mobilization from every point of view. And they were unable to find any better method than the draft.

The chief reason for the success of the draft the conference reported was the fact that it was administered by civilians who commanded the confidence and loyalty of the draftees to a greater extent than army officers would have.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

The need of instilling in the youth a sense of civic and political responsibility, the realization that the junior citizen is the best guarantee of good citizenship have been so forcefully brought to the attention of club women that a new department has been created and added to the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. It is the department of junior memberships and it is headed by Mrs. Kenneth R. Taylor, Sheridan road, South Euclid. Its great purpose is that the women of the Ohio Federation may through help pave the way for a citizenship better than the country has every had before.

BAYLIFFS MAKING STRONG BID FOR BASEBALL CROWN

The old county championship baseball crown is being removed from the moth balls this week and shined up for immediate use.

The tarnished symbol of reigning power now sits wobbly upon the heads of the Yellow Springs Athletics, with in easy arm reach of the Bayliff Electric, Xenia's contender for championship laurels.

Whether the electricians can brush the unsteady coronet from the brows of the noble up-country athletes is a question that will be decided at the Washington St Ball Park Sunday afternoon, when Bayliff's pets and the Athletics tribe meet to argue out the problem with a baseball and a flock of bats, and the battered headpiece of sovereignty rides in the balance.

The game will be the third and final of a series that so far finds each team holding one game as an edge on the laurels. Yellow Springs defeated the locals on the Xenia diamond and then were subjected to a defeat at the hands of the electricians at Yellow Springs last Sunday. In the initial set-to between the two teams, Dave Cooper, the electricians' fork hander was defeated by Harold Little, the ex-collector, who permitted but six hits. Last Sunday, Twell, a former Kitty League moundsman reversed the tables on Yellow Springs by wallowing Bill Day, the Athletics twin-ace.

Nether management has announced pitching assignments for the coming affair, but it is thought; most likely that Manager Carlisle will send Little back against the locals. And it is believed that Manager Roy Bayliff will re-engage Twell, the Kitty League pitcher, to take up the hurling burden for his side of the argument. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

LEBANON GIRL IS KIDNAPED WHILE IN MOTHER'S AUTO

No Trace of Abductors Found—18-Year-Old Girl Seized in Hamilton.

Cincinnati, Sept. 20.—Forced to get out of her mother's automobile, which was parked on one of the main thoroughfares, of Hamilton yesterday, Ethel Houck, 18, Lebanon, was carried to another automobile standing nearby by two men, who jumped into the car and immediately sped away.

Mrs. Houck, the wife of Theodore Houck, in a statement to detectives, said she had driven from Lebanon with her daughter in order that she might have the girl examined by a Hamilton physician.

"I went into the doctor's office to make an appointment," Mrs. Houck said, "and left Ethel in the car. Just as I was getting ready to go out and bring her in I saw two men lift her inside the door of a touring car and race down the street.

"Ethel had no men friends other than the friends of the family. And I am sure I had never seen her abductors before. I cannot imagine why they would kidnap her."

When it was learned that the Hamilton police believed the two men and the girl had headed for this city, the Cincinnati police arranged to inspect all incoming cars and examine all questionable characters.

NEXT WAR TO LAST ONLY FEW DAYS

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 20.—The next great war will last but a few days, will be accompanied by the bombing to death of thousands of noncombatants and will be won by the nation or allied group which controls the air, Major General George H. Harries, commander-in-chief of the Military Order of the World War predicted yesterday in an address at the order's convention here.

The victor, he continued, would be the contender who, ignoring the enemy's army, sent his bombing planes over the enemy's strategic cities, dealing out death to their inhabitants.

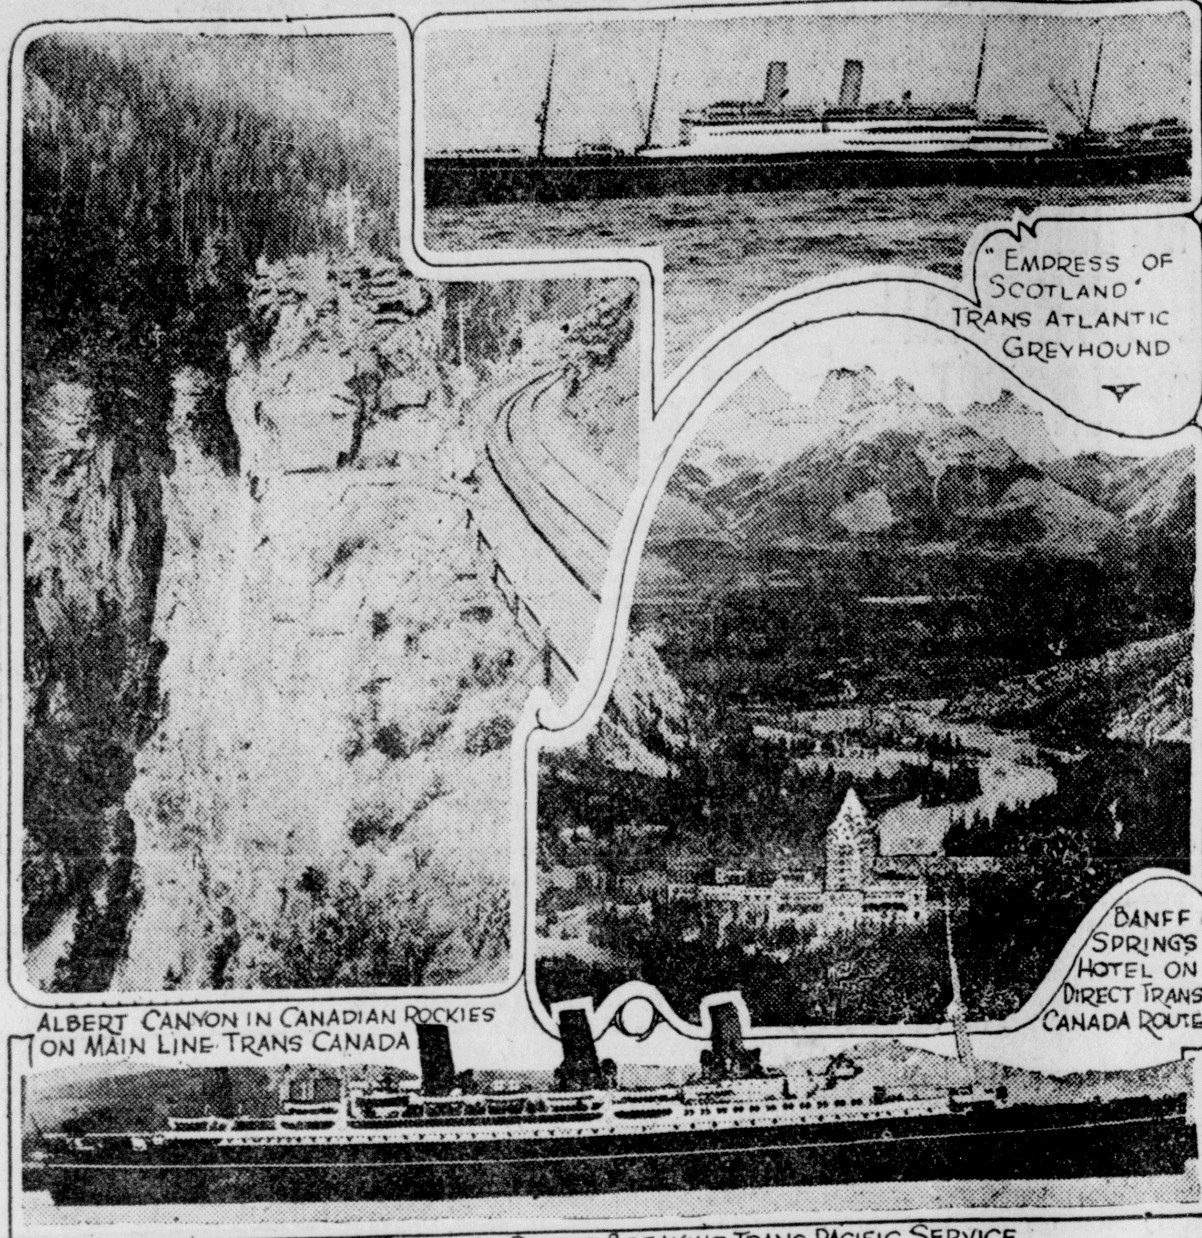

"The next war," he declared, "will see the victor's air force, a tremendous death-dealing phalanx, not attacking the enemy's army, but flying far aloft over it and dealing out death and destruction to the people who are in the strategic cities to the rear of the army. There will be no more infantry; that is in the sense of an open attack by infantry. The infantry will no longer go out in open attack but will be in tanks. To send it out into the open would be nothing short of murder in view of the terrible engines of warfare that are being built today. The purpose of the infantry will be to hold places taken by the aerial bombers. Then they must have an air force aloft to guard them, else the enemy will by stealth blow them out of the occupied area by raids of bomb planes.

"The only way such an invader can be successfully resisted before he can accomplish this awful purpose of destroying cities and their inhabitants is to meet him with a superior control."

CANADA FAST BECOMING IMPORTANT LINK IN ROUND-THE-WORLD TRAVEL SCHEDULES

NEW "EMPERESS OF CANADA" IN RECORD BREAKING TRANS PACIFIC SERVICE

By the perfection of the all-Canadian rail and steamship service between Europe and the Orient, Canada is rapidly becoming a much traveled world highway. How surprised would Columbus be or Cartier, Cabot and the Pilgrim Fathers, could they return again to sail from Europe westward, to be told that they could cross the Atlantic, the continent of North America and the vast Pacific arriving in Japan some twenty days after leaving the English port.

Yet such is the state of travel today. By using a fast steamship on the Southampton-Quebec route, less than four days are spent on the open Atlantic. Continuing his swift passage, the Orient-bound passenger is whisked across Canada from Montreal to Vancouver, a distance of 2,885 miles, in 92 hours and deposited beside a waiting Pacific greyhound that transports him to Japan in ten days or less. Such rapid transportation is bound to attract business men to whom the saving of a day or even a few hours, may often be fraught with momentous significance.

Canada is also becoming a popular route with travelers between Europe and Australia and New Zealand. The cross-Canada route compares favorably in time and distance with the Suez Canal route and possesses the further advantage of eliminating a long water trip in the tropics, when possible. It also affords an opportunity to view some of the finest mountain scenery in the world, that of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. Daylight travel in this mountain region may be made in an open observation car, permitting unobstructed views of the country. In fact, the whole trip from Europe to the Orient or Antipodes may be made under the most luxurious of traveling conditions, both on ship and train.

For those who prefer to travel more slowly and enjoy more time on the ocean, there are slower but just as comfortable boats, and with 36 trans-continental trains speeding across Canada at eight o'clock every morning on one railway alone, the traveler may suit his every whim as to speed.

The victor, he continued, would be the contender who, ignoring the enemy's army, sent his bombing planes over the enemy's strategic cities, dealing out death to their inhabitants.

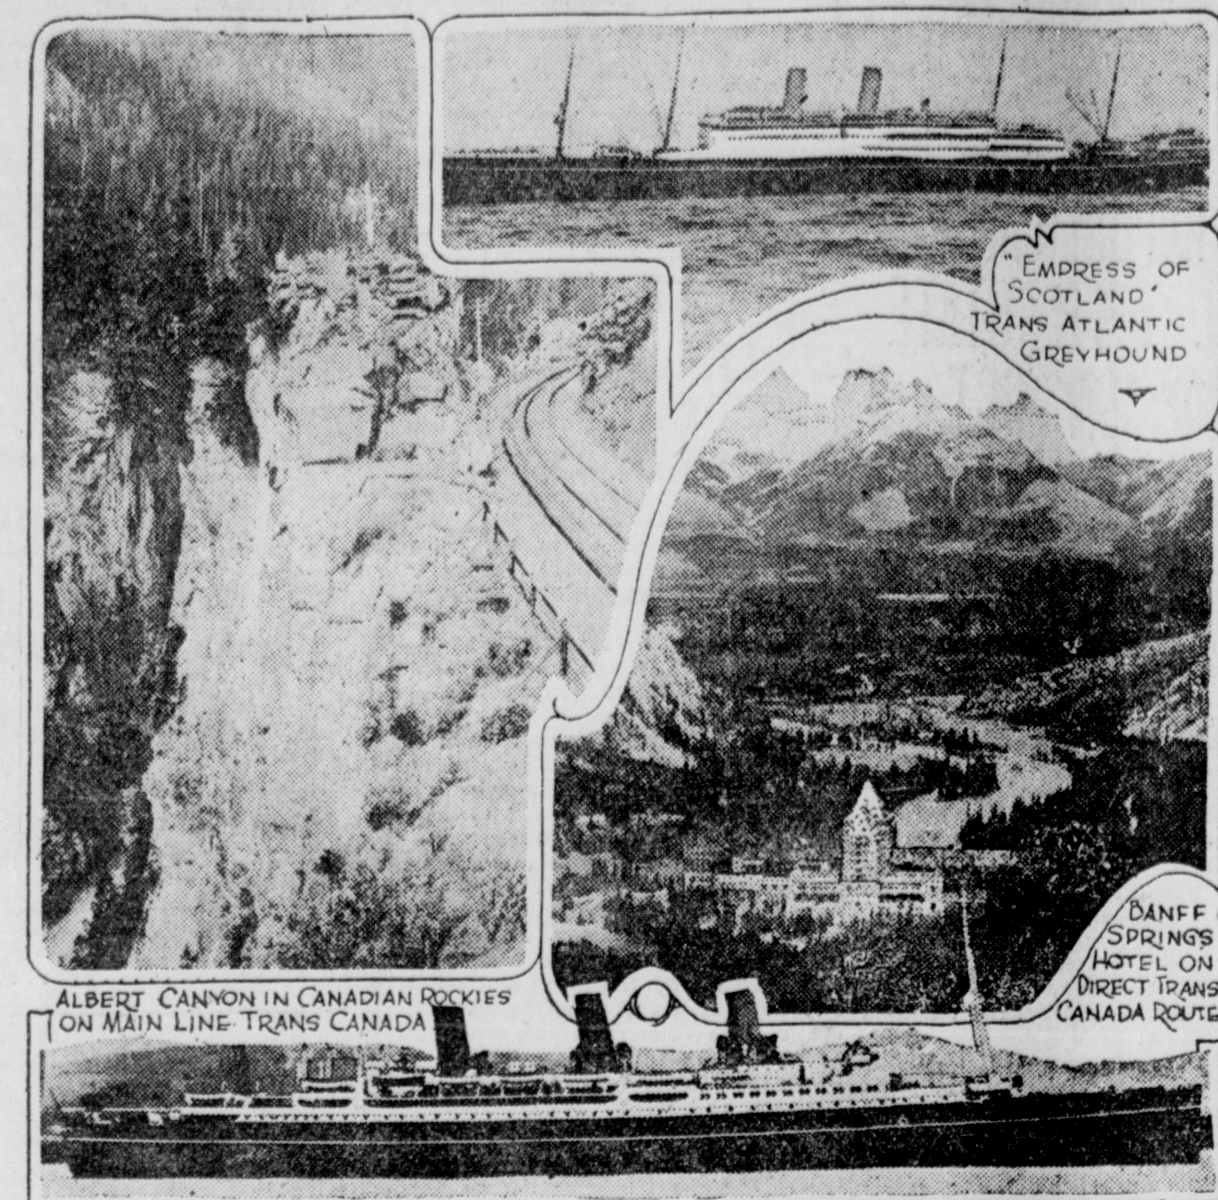

"The next war," he declared, "will see the victor's air force, a tremendous death-dealing phalanx, not attacking the enemy's army, but flying far aloft over it and dealing out death and destruction to the people who are in the strategic cities to the rear of the army. There will be no more infantry; that is in the sense of an open attack by infantry. The infantry will no longer go out in open attack but will be in tanks. To send it out into the open would be nothing short of murder in view of the terrible engines of warfare that are being built today. The purpose of the infantry will be to hold places taken by the aerial bombers. Then they must have an air force aloft to guard them, else the enemy will by stealth blow them out of the occupied area by raids of bomb planes."

"The only way such an invader can be successfully resisted before he can accomplish this awful purpose of destroying cities and their inhabitants is to meet him with a superior control."

BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

CANADA FAST BECOMING IMPORTANT LINK IN ROUND-THE-WORLD TRAVEL SCHEDULES

NEW 'EMPEROR OF CANADA' IN RECORD BREAKING TRANS PACIFIC SERVICE

By the perfection of the all-Canadian rail and steamship service between Europe and the Orient Canada is rapidly becoming a much traveled world highway. How surprised would Columbus be or Cartier, Cabot and the Pilgrim Fathers, could they return again to sail from Europe westward, to be told that they could cross the Atlantic, the continent of North America and the vast Pacific, arriving in Japan some twenty days after leaving the English port.

Yet such is the state of travel today. By using a fast steamship on the Southampton-Quebec route, less than four days are spent on the open Atlantic. Continuing his swift passage, the Orient-bound passenger is whisked across Canada from Montreal to Vancouver, a distance of 2,885 miles, in 92 hours and deposited beside a waiting Pacific greyhound that transports him to Japan in ten days or less. Such rapid transportation is bound to attract business men to whom the saving of a day or even a few hours, may often be fraught with momentous significance.

Canada is also becoming a popular route with travelers between Europe and Australia and New Zealand. The cross-Canada route compares favorably in time and distance with the Suez Canal route and possesses the further advantage of eliminating a long water trip in the tropics, something always to be avoided when possible. It also affords an opportunity to view some of the finest mountain scenery in the world, that of the Canadian Pacific Rockies. Daylight travel in this mountain region may be made in an open observation car, permitting unobstructed views of the country. In fact, the whole trip from Europe to the Orient or Antipodes may be made under the most luxurious of traveling conditions, both on ship and train.

For those who prefer to travel more slowly and enjoy more time on the ocean, there are slower but just as comfortable boats, and with 36 trans-continental trains speeding across Canada at night, every morning on one railway alone, the traveler may suit his every whim as to speed.

ture of the affair at seven o'clock, followed by a short program, and the study of the organized Bible class work. The affair was delightful in every detail, the other socials being looked forward to with interest by the class members.

BATTERED RELIC OF MANY ESCAPADES IS FINALLY CAUGHT

Athens, Ga., Sept. 19.--Battered relic of many successful races with the law, a dilapidated especially geared old car locally famous as the "Dixie Corn Flyer," has at last come into lawful hands.

The car has been sold by Sheriff Jackson for $28.50 to Ewell Haynes. It was seized by the officers some time ago when after many unsuccessful attempts to overhaul it on the broad highways they worked the German "pincer" system on it and hemmed it in at Newton's bridge.

After vain attempts to ram the car through the surrounding cordon of officers, Lee Keney, its owner, surrendered it loaded with whiskey and himself. He went to the auction block, much battered from being rammed into the bridge when the driver found himself surrounded with no avenue of escape.

According to officials the car got its name from the number of times it was able to outrun the officers and escape with its cargoes of booze.

RADIO DEVELOPING RAPIDLY ABROAD IS WORD TO AMERICA

Washington, Sept. 19.--Reports to the Commerce Department from its agents abroad indicate that radio development is generally proceeding rapidly.

The Japanese government has mapped out a plan for linking up the various islands of the Empire by wireless, telephone and telegraph. American Vice Consul Correll, at Nagasaki, reported. The first step will be taken this month, Correll said, when telephone communication by radio will be opened across the Chosen Strait. The stations at Fukuoka and Fusan contain the necessary equipment, and it is expected that the shipping along the coasts of Kiushu and Chosen will take advantage of this service, Correll stated.

No laws have yet been passed to govern wireless telephony in Argentina, according to Commercial Attaché Feely, but a bill is being drafted for presentation to the next Congress to regulate the use of radio sets. No regulations at the present time in effect prevent the sale of broadcasting and receiving sets, Feely reported. The latter he said, are being sold to some extent locally, but of very inferior quality and sell at from 200 to 700 pesos.

The establishment of telephonic communication between England and the Netherlands, is expected shortly as the result of the completion of an ocean cable extending from Aldeboro, England to Domburg, on the Dutch coast. From Domburg the trunk lines will form a connection through the Middleburg Exchange with the long-distance lines of Holland.

This cable, owned jointly by the two countries, was planned in the early part of 1914 but the outbreak of the war prevented its completion until the present time. Up to now there has never been any telephonic communication between England and Holland.

JUDGE ALLEN URGES HIGHER MORAL CODE OF LAWS FOR NATION

Akron, O., Sept. 19.--"The machinery which our officials use today in the administration of justice is that machinery which was evolved in the days of the stage coach and the knitting machine," declared Miss Florence E. Allen, one of Cuyahoga County's twelve Common Pleas judges, addressing the East Akron Board of Trade.

OUR HUSBANDS

By HANNY

Judge Allen urged a higher moral code and the introduction of business methods in the administration of justice, together with abandonment of outworn machinery of the law in favor of new codes tempered to the needs of the present.

She said judges are hampered in their decisions by the enormous amount of litigation which has to be handled and by the circumstance that there is no acknowledged head to the judicial departments.

"I have worked with many juries whose ability I questioned," Judge Allen said, pleading that substantial citizens of the community abandon their practice of pulling every wire to avoid jury service.

"I know positively of instances in which juries played cards, or shooting dice, in order to arrive at a speedy decision, and criminals of the worst type were thereby turned loose upon the community," asserted Judge Allen.

BATTERED RELIC OF MANY ESCAPADES IS FINALLY CAUGHT

Athens, Ga., Sept. 19.—Battered relic of many successful races with the law, a dilapidated especially geared old car locally famous as the "Dixie Corn Flyer," has at last come into lawful hands.

The car has been sold by Sheriff Jackson for $25.50 to Ewell Haynes.

It was seized by the officers some time ago when after many unsuccessful attempts to overhaul it on the broad highways they worked the German "pincer" system on it and hemmed it in at Newton's bridge.

After vain attempts to ram the car through the surrounding cordon of officers, Lee Keney, its owner, surrendered it loaded with whiskey and himself. He went to the chain gang and the car to the auction block, much battered from being rammed into the bridge when the driver found himself surrounded with no avenue of escape.

According to officials the car got its name from the number of times it was able to outrun the officers and escape with its cargoes of booze.

RADIO DEVELOPING RAPIDLY ABROAD IS WORD TO AMERICA

Washington, Sept. 19.—Reports to the Commerce Department from its agents abroad indicate that radio development is generally proceeding rapidly.

The Japanese government has mapped out a plan for linking up the various islands of the Empire by wireless, telephone and telegraph.

American Vice Consul Correll, at Nagasaki, reported. The first step will be taken this month, Correll said, when telephone communication by radio will be opened across the Chosen Strait. The stations at Fukuoka and Fusan contain the necessary equipment, and it is expected that the shipping along the coasts of Kiushu and Chosen will take advantage of this service, Correll stated.

No laws have yet been passed to govern wireless telephony in Argentina, according to Commercial Attache Feely, but a bill is being drafted for presentation to the next Congress to regulate the use of radio sets. No regulations at the present time in effect prevent the sale of broadcasting and receiving sets. Feely reported. The latter he said, are being sold to some extent locally, but of very inferior quality and sell at from 200 to 700 pesos.

The establishment of telephonic communication between England and the Netherlands, the Department has been advised, is expected shortly as the result of the completion of an ocean cable extending from Aldeboro, England to Domburg, on the Dutch coast. From Domburg, the trunk lines will form a connection through the Middleburg Exchange with the long-distance lines of Holland.

This cable, owned jointly by the two countries, was planned in the early part of 1914 but the outbreak of the war prevented its completion until the present time. Up to now there has never been any telephonic communication between England and Holland.

JUDGE ALLEN URGES HIGHER MORAL CODE OF LAWS FOR NATION

Akron, O., Sept. 19.—"The machinery which our officials use today in the administration of justice is that machinery which was evolved in the days of the stage coach and the knitting machine," declared Miss Florence E. Allen, one of Cuyahoga County's twelve Common Pleas judges, addressing the East Akron Board of Trade.

"I have worked with many juries whose ability I questioned," Judge Allen said, pleading that substantial citizens of the community abandon their practice of pulling every wire to avoid jury service.

"I know positively of instances in which juries played cards, or shot dice, in order to arrive at a speedy decision, and criminals of the worst type were thereby turned loose upon the community," asserted Judge Allen.

She said judges are hampered in their decisions by the enormous amount of litigation which has to be handled and by the circumstance that there is no acknowledged head to the judicial departments.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR 1922 CENTRAL HIGH GRID TEAM

Some thirty-odd perspiring athletes in faded and dirt-spotted blue jerseys and moleskins, who jog around the half-mile track at the Fairgrounds every week-day evening just as twilight is chasing the sun across the horizon, have every indication of being able to give to Central High School this season, another winning football team.

When Coach Earl F. Burgner snaps out his command to take a turn about the racing oval, these tired athletes know that his whip-like orders are ended for the day after a couple of hours or more of almost incessant barking of instructions, advice, criticism and commands. It is then a fatigued bunch of pigskin chasers that drags unwilling, feet around the dirt speed track and piles exhausted into the auto truck that conveys them to showers at the school building.

Formation practice began this week after all previous sessions had been devoted to individual training in line charging and plunging, correct standing and getaway positions proper methods of rolling on the ball, carrying the ball, and other intricate and important items of play. This week embryo quarterbacks are barking commands to anxious backs seeking positions on the eleven about seven or eight recruits being given trials for backfield jobs. Big Bob Ballentyne, veteran tackle, is back on his old job and Captain Don Currie, has been shifted from guard to center in the practices. Cowan, veteran-end, is out for his old position and Horace Smith, who played guard and end last season is a candidate for a position. This means that practically the rest of the line will be new material, with Watkins, a 200 pound guard candidate, one of the newest contenders for position. In the backfield, "Tad" Randall, the fleet footed half, seems to be the only athlete with a position clinched. Art Currie and Hallenback are being alternated at the signal position at the full-backing job, while Botorff, Zell, Holton, Jordan and others are also being given an opportunity to appear behind the line.

Long sessions with the tackling dummy every evening have proved to be a strenuous part of the team's training so far, although not an injury has been reported among candidates yet. Roll-blocking is a long-suit of Coach Burgner, and indications are that he will have a squad of huskies that will bowl over everything on the field but the goal posts on the first play.

The season will open a week from Friday when Greenville High a newcomer on the schedule of the local eleven will be here to inaugurate the season and baptize the new playing field at the Fairgrounds.

THE PENNANT RACE

The Yankees pennant stock took a boom today following their defeat of the Tigers while the Browns were losing to the Senators. The Yankees now have a lead of 2 1-2 games. They have nine more games to play and the Browns have eight. Every victory the Yanks gain in their remaining games will make it so much harder for the Browns to overhaul them. In order to win the Browns must gain three more victories than the Yankees in the few games remaining to be played. The Yanks can lose two of their remaining games and still win even if the Browns win all their eight games.

The Giants lost half a game when they were idle while the Pirates were trimming the Phillies. The Giants have a lead of 5 1-2 games. They meet the Pirates today for three games. Pittsburgh must sweep the series to have even a look in on the pennant. One or more victories for the Giants will shatter the Pirates' chances. The Giants have 13 more games to play while the Pirates have ten. The Giants need only seven of their remaining contests to win out even if the Pirates win all their ten games. This gives the Giants the edge and they have to play a little better than .500 ball while the Pirates must play 1.000.

All in all, it looks like another New York world series two weeks from now.

DELICIOUS CONCOCTIONS OF GAZETTE AND REPUBLICAN COOKING SCHOOL EXPECTED TO DRAW CROWDS TO MCKINLEY BUILDING

"Debs" and "sub-debs," "flappers" and fiancées, brides and matrons, young and old, are expected to attend the free cooking school to be conducted in the McKinley School auditorium under the auspices of The Gazette and The Republican, four days starting next Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Delicious culinary concoctions, tempting collations, appetizing dishes, dainty desserts and exquisite salads will be so practically explained and so carefully demonstrated that the mystery of their ability to attract the male and female taste will be solved and the mixing and measuring and kneading and cooking will stand out simply as examples of the efforts of the artist of the kitchen.

The cooking school such as will be given here four days for the benefit of the city and county is not an untried experiment. The services of these culinary experts were obtained by the management of these newspapers after the success of the cooking school movement had been heralded broadcast from many cities where the experts have conducted their school. During the school conducted in Columbus, 21,000 women were present. At Athens and Sandusky and other places where the cooking school has been held, its success has been enthusiastically broadcast by those who came in contact with it.

The school is conducted by M. S. Leslie, manager and lecturer, Dr. R. B. Shives, culinary lecturer and food expert and Mrs. Rose L. Weilenman, culinary teacher and demonstrator. Before the school opens the stage in the auditorium of the McKinley school building will be fitted and equipped with all the kitchen paraphernalia necessary to carry out the food demonstrations, including several ranges, tables and kitchen utensils. Practical demonstrations of each recipe discussed and lectured upon will be given in the presence of the audience and samples of the various recipes distributed. Each day five baskets of groceries will be given away as an added attraction.

The sessions each afternoon will run from 2:15 o'clock until 4:30 in the afternoon, during which time the conductors of the school will run the gamut of as many recipes and give as many demonstrations of cooking as possible in that time. Each day however, will be devoted to some particular form of cooking and will be announced in advance. Mr. Shives will lecture on the health properties of certain foods and Mrs. Weilenman will explain their preparation from various recipes, while she is cooking the various concoctions.

In addition there will be an open forum during which the lecturers will be ready to answer all questions pertaining to the cooking. Those attending are also advised to equip themselves with paper and pencil so that they may take notes to follow

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

MRS. FALLON REASSURES NELLIE Chapter 75

After breakfast Mrs. Roberts drew Nellie into her room. She said: "Is anything wrong, my dear? Can I help?"

"No, something happened at the office yesterday to annoy me—I don't know why I cried, and made myself such a sight," Nellie answered with a wry little laugh. "I'm not in the habit of sniveling over things. When I was at Miss Carter's I used to swear, I don't know but it is better than crying—doesn't blot your face all up and make your eyes red."

"I would rather see you cry, Nellie, I don't like to hear pretty young girls swear," Mrs. Roberts replied.

"I guess that's what makes so many girls cry babies. They won't cuss and they have to let out their feelings somehow."

"Well, don't feel so badly. I'm sure you have no reason. And don't cuss!" They both laughed merrily—the word coming from Mrs. Roberts whose speech was usually ultra refined.

An unusual shyness possessed Nellie when she encountered Mr. Fallon. She felt almost positive he had heard what Lena said—if he had, what must he think?

Would he believe she would dare think of him in the way Lena had suggested? Furtively Nellie watched for any sign, any change in his manner that would let her know; but he gave no hint. Evidently, for him, the incident was closed. Nellie breathed more freely as the day went on. He was exactly the same as if nothing disagreeable had happened—until, just as she was leaving he said:

"I hope yesterday's incident hasn't distressed you, Miss Riley. There is a little jealousy perhaps among the girls because you have been given—Miss Joins' place with us. And there are times when one is justified in losing their temper—in using strong language. Perhaps yesterday was one of the times." And he smiled at her so good naturedly, that Nellie smiled happily back as she replied:

"Yes, I think it was." That night Nellie did not refuse to walk with Donald Horne. All traces of tears gone, she chatted and laughed gaily. Her heart was again light. Donald put himself out to amuse her, retailed several clever stories he had heard, told of being on the track of a news story that meant a front page article and was encouraged by her manner to hope it wouldn't be long before he might dare to put to test his fate.

That it was the reaction from her grief, her fear, that Mr. Fallon would misjudge her, he had no way of knowing so hugged to himself the responsiveness in her manner as a sign she was beginning to like him better; take more interest in what concerned him.

He would not have been so pleased had he known that Nellie's thoughts after she left him were all of another that she laid wide-eyed wondering how it would have seemed to walk with George Fallon, to talk and laugh with him as she had with Donald? That she held her hands over her hot cheeks as in the darkness she blushed her temerity in even thinking of such things.

The next day was Sunday and Nellie's happy thoughts remained with her the entire day. Mr. Fallon had not heard—or if he had he was not displeased with her because of her lack of control. In the morning she attended a nearby church with Mrs. Roberts. She never had been in the habit of attending church until she went to live at Mrs. Doty's and Mrs. Roberts persuaded her.

"I dislike going alone, dear," she had said. "And it will be a lesson in correct speaking for you—if nothing else, although I am sure it will benefit you in other ways."

As she stood before the glass pinning on her hat, Nellie thought how much more becoming soft, frilly things were than the plainer clothes necessary for the office.

"I wish he might see me in something besides office clothes," she said to herself wistfully. "I'd look more like the girls he knows—like Miss Dorothy. Some day I'll pretend I'm

WIFE HELPS ELECT HUBBY

"After having been in bed half the time for a year with severe pains in my right side over the appendix, stomach trouble and bloating, which the doctors seemed unable to reach with medicine, and advised operation as the only remedy, my nurse advised me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and its results have truly been wonderful as I am now entirely well and strong, and at the last election worked hard to elect my husband." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sayre & Hemphill and druggists everywhere.

Agree Where to Operate

(Wednesday Health Talk No. 37. By G. C. DONOHOO, D. C.

The history of nearly every sufferer from chronic disease is that of having been kept in a mental state of uncertainty as to just what his disease might be. In the case of Miss Triplett she was credited with having four different diseases and two different operations were advised, one for appendicitis and one for gall stones. Her parents were probably justified in refusing either.

The certainty of chiropractic is its chief recommendation. The chiropractor makes an analysis of the spinal condition. Where he finds spinal bone displacements he makes a nerve tracing and the nerve tracing invariably leads direct to the organ affected. Thus he can say positively, because the tenderness of the nerves leave no other conclusion to be made, that a certain organ is affected. He removes the cause of the disease by re-aligning the displaced spinal bones thus freeing the spinal nerves to transmit a full tide of mental impulses into the organs affected. The result is health.

DISEASE LOCATED AND THEN OVERCOME

"The first doctor pronounced it kidney trouble. The second called it leakage of the peritoneum. Then he changed it to appendicitis and advised an immediate operation. We objected. Later it was pronounced gall stones and death was predicted at one time, unless there was an operation for stones in 48 hours. Another doctor was called and he said it was stomach trouble. Then a chiropractor was called and she began to get well and today is back on her feet. I wish we had called a chiropractor first."—MRS. ## PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR 1922 CENTRAL HIGH GRID TEAM

Some thirty-odd perspiring athletes in faded and dirt-spotted blue jerseys and moleskins, who jog around the half-mile track at the Fairgrounds every week-day evening just as twilight is chasing the sun across the horizon, have every indication of being able to give to Central High School this season, another winning football team.

When Coach Earl F. Burgner snaps out his command to take a turn about the racing oval, these tired athletes know that his whip-like orders are ended for the day after a couple of hours or more of almost incessant barking of instructions, advice, criticism and commands. It is then a fatigued bunch of pigskin chasers that drags unwilling feet around the dirt speed track and piles exhausted into the auto truck that conveys them to showers at the school building.

Formation practice began this week after all previous sessions had been devoted to individual training in line charging and plunging, correct standing and getaway positions, proper methods of rolling on the ball, carrying the ball, and other intricate and important items of play. This week embryo quarterbacks are barking commands to anxious backs seeking positions on the eleven about seven or eight recruits being given trials for backfield jobs. Big Bob Ballentyne, veteran tackle, is back on his old job and Captain Don Currie, has been shifted from guard to center in the practices. Cowan, veteran end, is out for his old position and Horace Smith, who played guard and end last season is a candidate for a position. This means that practically the rest of the line will be new material, with Watkins, a 200 pound guard candidate, one of the newest contenders for position. In the backfield, "Tad" Randall, the fleet footed half, seems to be the only athlete with a position clinched. Art Currie and Hallenbeck are being alternated at the signal position at the full-backing job, while Botorff, Zell, Holton, Jordan and others are also being given an opportunity to appear behind the line.

Long sessions with the tackling dummy every evening have proved to be a strenuous part of the team's training so far, although not an injury has been reported among candidates yet. Roll-blocking is a long-suit of Coach Burgner, and indications are that he will have a squad of huskies to bowl over everything on the field but the goal posts on the first play.

The season will open a week from Friday when Greenville High a newcomer on the schedule of the local eleven will be here to inaugurate the season and baptize the new playing field at the Fairgrounds.

THE PENNANT RACE

The Yankees pennant stock took a boom today following their defeat of the Tigers while the Browns were losing to the Senators. The Yankees now have a lead of 2 1-2 games. They have nine more games to play and the Browns have eight. Every victory the Yanks gain in their remaining games will make it so much harder for the Browns to overhaul them. In order to win the Browns must gain three more victories than the Yankees in the few games remaining to be played. The Yanks can lose two of their remaining games and still win even if the Browns win all their eight games.

The Giants lost half a game when they were idle while the Pirates were trimming the Phillies. The Giants have a lead of 5 1-2 games. They meet the Pirates today for three games. Pittsburgh must sweep the series to have even a look in on the pennant. One or more victories for the Giants will shatter the Pirates' chances. The Giants have 13 more games to play while the Pirates have ten. The Giants need only seven of their remaining contests to win out even if the Pirates win all their ten games. This gives the Giants the edge and they have to play a little better than .500 ball while the Pirates must play 1.000.

All in all, it looks like another New York world series two weeks from now.

DELICIOUS CONCOCTIONS OF GAZETTE AND REPUBLICAN COOKING SCHOOL EXPECTED TO DRAW CROWDS TO MCKINLEY BUILDING

"Debs" and "sub-debs," "flappers" and fiancées, brides and matrons, young and old, are expected to attend the free cooking school to be conducted in the McKinley School auditorium under the auspices of The Gazette and The Republican, four days starting next Tuesday, Sept. 26.

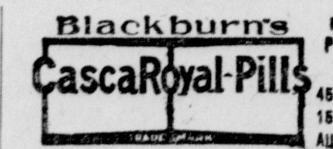

Delicious culinary concoctions, tempting collations, appetizing dishes dainty deserts and exquisite salads will be so practically explained and so carefully demonstrated that the mystery of their ability to attract the male and female taste will be solved and the mixing and measuring and kneading and cooking will stand out simply as examples of the efforts of the artist of the kitchen.

The cooking school such as will be given here four days for the benefit of the city and county is not an untried experiment. The services of these culinary experts were obtained by the management of these newspapers after the success of the cooking school movement had been heralded broadcast from many cities where the experts have conducted their school. During the school conducted in Columbus, 21,000 women were present. At Athens and Sandusky and other places where the cooking school has been held, its success has been enthusiastically broadcast by those who came in contact with it.

The school is conducted by M. S. Leslie, manager and lecturer, Dr. R. B. Shives, culinary lecturer and food expert and Mrs. Rose L. Weilenman, culinary teacher and demonstrator. Before the school opens the stage in the auditorium of the McKinley school building will be fitted and equipped with all the kitchen paraphernalia necessary to carry out the food demonstrations, including several ranges, tables and kitchen utensils. Practical demonstrations of each recipe discussed and lectured upon will be given in the presence of the audience and samples of the various recipes distributed. Each day five baskets of groceries will be given away as an added attraction.

The sessions each afternoon will run from 2:15 o'clock until 4:30 in the afternoon, during which time the conductors of the school will run the gamut of as many recipes and give as many demonstrations of cooking as possible in that time. Each day however, will be devoted to some particular form of cooking and will be announced in advance. Mr. Shives will lecture on the health properties of certain foods and Mrs. Weilenman will explain their preparation from various recipes, while she is cooking the various concoctions.

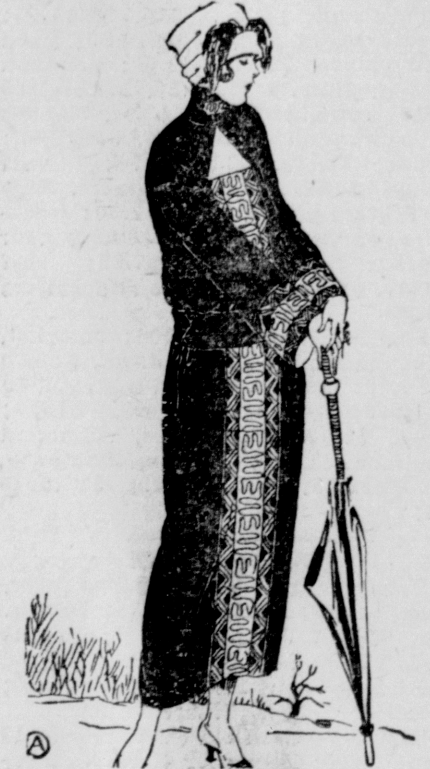

In addition there will be an open forum during which the lecturers will be ready to answer all questions pertaining to the cooking. Those attending are also advised to equip themselves with paper and pencil so that they may take notes to follow

Styles BY LENORE

One never knows just what to expect of the neckline these days. Note the effect produced by the one in the gown sketched. It is very chic and very new. This model is being shown by one of the leading designers, and is made of black crepe Maroon, with a panel and slightly flaring cuffs embroidered in gray. Black and gray, by the way is a combination that is exceedingly smart this year.

Note the long, close-fitting lines the severity of which in the front is so admirably broken by the triangular arrangement at the neck. Of course any big woman will at once recognize the particular suitability for such a model for her.
